ILLINOIS TERMINAL TRACKS are replaced Tuesday on the west side of Madison Avenue between 13th and 14th streets. The preconstructed tracks and ties at left were lowered into place, allowing trains to use the tracks during the evening hours. Work on the west side of the crossing will continue through today as two-way traffic is rerouted to the east side of the street. Replacement of the east side tracks and crossing is scheduled for Sept. 10, 11 and 12. Other grade crossings between 13th and 14th streets are to be repaired as directed by the Illinois Commerce Commission. These crossings include State and Iowa streets and Washington Avenue. Grand Avenue already has been repaired. This view is looking north on Madison Avenue.

Faculty likely to approve GC pact

Granite City teachers are believed likely to ratify tonight a tentative agreement reached yesterday morning at the end of all-night bargaining.

In line with optimism that the proposed pact will be approved by faculty members this evening (with ratification by the Board of Education Friday night), plans are proceeding for students to report to school Friday for a half-day of classes.

Tomorrow's classes will make it possible to proceed with Friday night's varsity football games and other upcoming athletic events.

Details of the tentative pact between Community Unit School District Nine and Granite City Local 743 of the American Federation of Teachers have not been publicly announced by the district or local.

Speculation around the community is that substantial salary increases are involved, and that a two-year agreement is planned. The previous pact expired June 30.

A 12-hour negotiation session on Labor Day was the seventh meeting between the two bargaining teams in recent weeks.

Progress was made in the holiday talks. But full accord was not reached and most teachers failed to report for

Select engineers for overpass project

By HARRY BARNES
of the Press-Record

Preliminary layout work for construction of the Granite City downtown overpass will get under way immediately. City Council members were told Tuesday night after the council approved an agreement with Keene & Associates, a Collinsville civil engineering firm, as the city's construction engineer on the project.

The aldermen approved the agreement by a 13 to 1 vote, with Alderman Sam Whitmer of the Second Ward casting the only negative vote. Kenneth R. Keene, president of the engineering firm who explained terms of the agreement prior to council action, said preliminary work of laying out lines and right-of-way will start immediately by his crew, rather than waiting for bidding on construction of the bridge span. An October bid call with a contract award by Nov. 1 is anticipated by city officials.

"This will give us a head start in good weather to get some of the preliminaries out of the way before construction work actually starts," Keene told the aldermen.

The contract agreement calls for construction engineer services for the city on an "as needed" basis, with maximum cost fixed at $398,000. The agreement fixes a flat profit figure of $50,000 for Keene & Associates. The proposal estimates the engineering work in behalf of the city will require 18,375 man hours. The maximum $398,000 fee covers a period of 24 months, which is estimated working time for the overpass construction.

The council vote authorized Mayor Paul Schuler to effect the agreement with the Collinsville firm.

Hiring of a city engineer for the project completes another step in the procedure necessary to the bid call which will be made by the Illinois Department of Transportation. The DOT also will award the contract.

Alderman Whitmer asked what source of funding would be used to pay the construction engineer and was told by Mayor Schuler that the engineering services would be amply provided for from the $1.7 million bond issue which will be underwritten by the Granite City Steel Division of National Steel Corp.

Whitmer objected that one phrase of the contract agreement referring to payment procedure states that payment "may be made" from motor fuel tax funds. Both Keene and Mayor Schuler explained that this phrasing was required because the agreement was prepared under state requirements, although it in no way requires the city to use motor fuel tax funds.

Whitmer has been a staunch supporter of the overpass project but at the same time has taken a firm stand against the use of motor fuel tax money for any part of the project, citing

Jobless pay sent to vacation states

Unemployment pay is being forwarded to Illinoisans who spend long vacation periods in such states as Arizona and Florida, State Rep. Everett G. Steele (R, Glen Carbon) asserted at yesterday's Rotary-sponsored prayer breakfast in Granite City.

He shared the podium with the other 56th Legislative District representatives, Sam Wolf (D, Granite City) and Jim McPike (D, Alton). Larry Dew presided at the gathering, held at Charlie's Restaurant.

The topic of unemployment compensation was debated after members of the audience charged that the legislature has created an adverse climate that is prompting numerous businesses to move or avoid expanding in Illinois.

Rep. McPike said new legislation was enacted this year, re-establishing an equal voice for labor and management. Labor-leaning

Damage settlement plan will be revised

The Illinois Pollution Control Board has rejected one phase of a proposed settlement of a two-year-old suit by the Environmental Protection Agency against the Granite City Division of National Steel Corp., and has remanded that part of the proposal for reconsideration.

The settlement proposal was agreed upon between the steel firm and EPA representatives in a public hearing in Granite City in mid-July. The proposal was reached in an effort to settle a suit filed by EPA against the steel company, charging air pollution violations in the emission of a white ash particulate that allegedly damaged cars and homes from Sept. 1 through Nov. 30, 1977.

Granite City Steel stipulated in the agreement that it will spend an ad-

The adolescent center is to be permanent in the county but at present has been funded only for 1979-80.

A second location may be opened in the Alton area next year to reduce travel costs. The lease here is to be extended from year to year, unless either party gives the other 60 days' written notice prior to the end of the lease year.

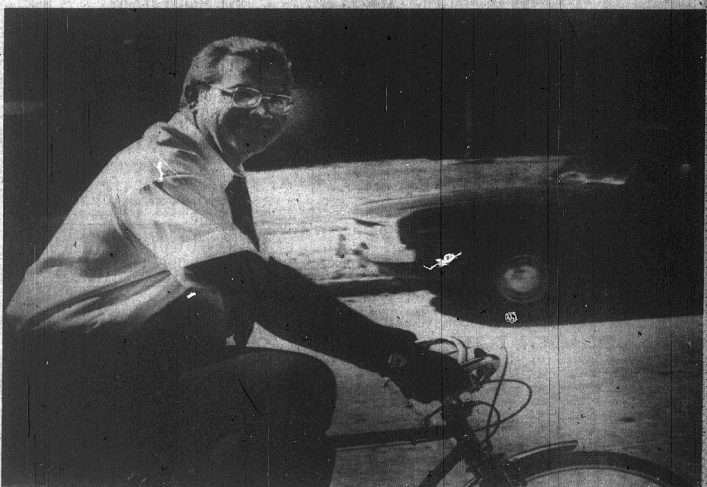

Persons aged 13 to 21 are to be educated and trained to overcome problems that prevent them from functioning in a regular classroom. It is estimated that enrollment will total 23, mainly in the 15-18 age range.

The Health Center has offices at 721 Washington, Alton. The lease agreement provides for it to utilize the Stallings building and grounds, paying $12,000 annual rent, maintaining heat throughout the school, paying for all utilities used or needed, providing custodial services and reimbursing the school district for fire, wind and vandalism insurance.

The center will provide personal injury and property liability insurance, and will maintain the building and equipment and repair any damage.

Governor urges restraint on real estate tax levies

Governor James R. Thompson is urging Illinois local government officials to hold down real estate taxes by reducing local tax levies by the amount of collections from the abolished personal property tax.

Thompson said he is confident the replacement tax, now being tested in the Illinois Supreme Court, will be upheld.

He pledged to protect local governments' replacement revenues from any adverse court ruling from the test case by calling the General Assembly into special session to deal with any deficiencies found by the court.

The test of the replacement tax was filed on Aug. 14, with oral arguments scheduled for Sept. 19.

In a letter to 7,600 mayors, city managers, superintendents of schools, municipal and county clerks, fiscal officers, and other local-level officials, mailed Friday and Tuesday, Thompson said:

"I strongly urge you, after determining your budget needs, to reduce your total levy by the estimated amount of personal property taxes to be collected for your taxing district in 1979."

Thompson said the loss of personal property valuation means that almost every local government and school district will have a smaller local property tax base.

However, each of these local governments will receive funds to replace the lost personal property tax dollars. A local tax levy filed at last year's level likely would result in increased real estate taxes, because it is billed against a reduced tax base, he said.

"There is really no need to levy increased taxes against real estate when adequate replacement tax revenues will be distributed in 1980," the governor said.

The 1979 tax levy for most units of government cannot be changed after the levy filing date.

Municipalities and many other units of government, that filing deadline is Sept. 11. Downstate school districts have a filing deadline in December 1979. Thompson said the Department of Local Government Affairs has completed a series of informational meetings on the replacement tax, attended by 1,300 local officials from around the state.

In addition, the department has mailed extensive information on the levy reduction process to each unit of government.

Pension gap still growing

Illinois Comptroller Roland W. Burris says that although the state's five employee pension systems meet current needs, a long-range plan is needed to safeguard future pensions for state workers, teachers, legislators, judges and university employees.

The comptroller's comments, which stem from a special analysis of the pension systems in his monthly fiscal report, parallel a similar but independent study of the systems made public last week by the Civic Federation of Chicago and the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce.

Burris said the growing liabilities of the five systems — up 156 percent or $2.266 billions since 1970 — require new decisions as to:

1. Whether current funding requirements — which are not being met — are realistic, and what funding level is appropriate to sustain the funds.

2. A specific, time-framed program to close the current funding gap to insure that the state of Illinois will meet its pension obligations to every state employee in the future.

The Illinois Public Employees Pension Laws Commission recommends that each fund's assets be at least two-thirds of the system's liabilities or payout obligations. That percentage is called the "security ratio."

Preserving herbs—dry it, you'll like it

By CATHERINE R. MAUCK
Madison County Extension Adviser, Home Economics
A small amount of herbs goes a long way and that mileage can be increased by freezing or drying them. Home-grown herbs can be stored for freshness that is as good or better than what can be purchased. Dried herbs are 3 to 4 times stronger than the fresh plants.

Most herbs reach their peak for flavor before flowering. That is the best stage to harvest herbs for drying. Early in the morning after the dew has dried is a good time to pick them.

Annual herbs can be cut off at the ground. Perennials can be cut about one-third the way down the main stem.

To prepare plants for drying, remove blossoms from the herb plants and place the leaves on the stem in cold water to remove soil, dust or bugs. Allow plants to drain on absorbent towels until dry.

The bag method of drying requires placing herbs upside down in a brown paper bag, and tying the stems. Leave 1 to 2 inches of the stems exposed. This allows the oil to flow from the stems to the leaves.

Place the bag in a warm, dry location. In about 1 to 2 weeks, when the leaves become brittle, tap them from the stems and the leaves will fall into the bag. The leaves can be stored in an airtight container away from the light.

With the tray drying method, herbs are cleaned in the same manner but heavy stalks can be discarded. Put the leafed stems one layer deep on a tray.

The tray should be kept in a dark, ventilated room. Turn over the herbs occasionally for uniform drying.

The leaves are ready for storage when they are dry and the stems are tough.

The shelf life of many herbs is 1 to 2 years but this period is shorter when herbs are exposed to light, heat and open air.

Herbs also may be frozen. Rinse herbs in cold water and blanch in boiling, unsalted water for 50 seconds. Cool quickly in ice water, package and freeze. Dill, chives and basil can be frozen without blanching.

Gary Patton services held

Funeral services were held this morning at St. Charles, Mo., for Gary Patton, 24, of 5133 Rapp Road, who died at 8:05 p.m. Monday at Firmin Desloge Hospital, St. Louis, of a gunshot wound to the head.

According to the Madison County Sheriff's department, deputies were called to the Patton home at 6:25 p.m. Sunday.

Sheriff's deputies reported finding Mr. Patton on a bed in his bedroom with a .22 caliber pistol lying next to him.

He was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center in a coma and then transferred to Firmin Desloge, where he died.

Mr. Patton was born in Chelsea, Okla. He was employed as a crane operator at Granite City Steel.

Among his survivors are his widow, Mrs. Debra (Smith) Patton; a daughter, Julie Patton, at home; one brother, James M. Patton, St. Peters, Mo.; two sisters, Mrs. Michael (Patricia) Brooks and Mrs. Carl (Debbie) Moellering, both of St. Charles, Mo.; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James (Betty) Patton, St. Peters; his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Hector McGregor, Wright City, Mo., and Mrs. Evaden Patton, Chelsea.

Safety award to Ill. Central Gulf

Illinois Central Gulf Railroad has been chosen as one among 14 railroads to receive the National Safety Council's "Golden Spike Award." ICG is an 16 industries company.

The public safety award is presented to recognize railroad companies' efforts to stimulate community and employee safety in the areas they serve.

The "Golden Spike Award" recognizes firms that play a leading role in cooperative programs with local safety councils and civic groups, participate in off-the-job safety programs, family night and school safety projects, and demonstrate a concern for safety by institutional advertising and public information activities.

In a letter to William J. Taylor, president and chief executive officer, NSC commended ICG for a "tremendous job" in the field of safety.

Await trade zone funding

There is still hope of beginning construction by Oct. 1 on major warehouse and manufacturing facilities for the Foreign Trade Zone being established at the Tri-City Regional Port.

A progress report at last night's Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce board of directors meeting for September, held at the Granite City Army Installation, showed that all is in readiness to start the building as soon as financing arrangements can be completed.

Financing currently is being delayed by large banks in the region because of the adverse national outlook for such funding programs. It was related. The situation was described as temporary, but serious because of deadlines facing the Trade Zone developers.

President Roger Higgins presided and retiring Executive Vice-President Edward Reiske presented financial reports showing a sound revenue outlook for the Chamber. He voiced high praise for Mrs. Mary Jesse's Ambassadors Committee, which is expected to complete the Chamber year Sept. 30 with 100 new members.

New Chamber officers will be elected at the Oct. 3 board meeting, when 12 new directors are to be seated. Pres. Higgins appointed Wayne Scannell to a board position formerly held by Burton Bernard.

It was noted that reservations are arriving in large numbers for the 39th annual Chamber meeting at 6 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 25, at the Sunset Hills Country Club. Speaker will be Lawrence K. Roos, president of the Federal Reserve Bank for this district.

Forty-seven arts and crafts displays are scheduled for Homestead Day Saturday, Sept. 15, with the exhibits and craft demonstrations arranged around the circumference of Civic Park, 20th Street, Delmar Avenue and Niedringhaus Avenue. It was announced by Mrs. Lois Wislizenus, president of the Women's Division of the Chamber.

The division also will sell yellow, pink and red tulips at Homestead Day.

Next Women's Division speaker will be Mrs. Betty Salsard.

ALLEGES RAPE

A St. Louis woman walked over to Venice police car at 2 a.m. Tuesday and asked them to help her find her purse in Lee Park. When they arrived where the woman's pickup truck was and found the purse near the back, she then told police she had been raped, but did not want a report made. The incident allegedly took place in the northwest corner of the park about 100 feet south of the Merchants highline. The alleged assailant was reportedly in his 30's.

RICHARD CARVER

Campaigning for 'family'

By AL MANNING

SPRINGFIELD — Richard Carver's choice of a campaign theme proves Illinois Republicans are in a full-scale battle for the U.S. Senate nomination.

Carver's decision to present the image of "A Family Senator" is a direct slap at Attorney General William Scott.

Scott is in a legal jam, and perhaps a political jam as well, as the result of a divorce from his first wife. (He has since remarried.)

The trouble started when the attorney general's former wife mentioned $50,000 was kept in a safe deposit box during the 1960s.

Scott claimed the money was used exclusively for campaign purposes, but he was indicted by a federal grand jury on income tax evasion charges.

Although the lengthy trial is scheduled to begin in October, it's far from certain that his guilt or innocence will be determined by primary election day in March.

Even if he is acquitted, there will undoubtedly be some politically damaging testimony regarding his domestic life.

That's why Carver's choice of a family theme is so interesting.

The Peoria mayor had his wife and four children with him during his formal announcement, and they plan to campaign together in a recreational vehicle.

The decision to use that theme was based on the advice of Doug Baily, the national political consultant of the firm Bailey and Dardouff. Carver has a $45,000 contract with the firm.

The firm also advised Gov. James Thompson during his first two campaigns.

Mrs. Flora Jones, 47, of St. Louis, was admitted to St. Elizabeth Medical Center for observation at 11:21 p.m. Wednesday suffering from a heart attack. She was struck by a car on her way to work.

Mrs. Jones was given a traffic citation for failure to yield right of way at Broadway and McKinley Street in Venice at 10:46 p.m. Wednesday.

David Kelly, 23, of 2909 Warren Ave., driver of the other vehicle in the car collision was treated for bruises and released from the hospital at 11:27 p.m. Wednesday.

PETITION DRIVE — Petitions asking the Madison County Board to provide funds to help avert a threatened cutback in Bi-State Transit System bus service to this area next year are being circulated in this area. Four Madison County Douglas Corp. employees, who use Bi-State buses to go to work daily have launched the petition drive and plan to appear before the county board when the petitions are full. Bi-State is seeking about $1 million from Madison St. Clair and Monroe counties by next July to keep full service here.

City sewer problems serious, Portell says

Granite City officials should take a look at its pending sewer break problems and "come up with some decisions" concerning funds for repairs and replacements, City Street Superintendent Lionel Portell told the City Council Tuesday night.

"We have a number of sewer breaks that have been pumping around for a long time and we should be thinking about repairing or replacing them," Portell said, noting that his department has no funds for extended sewer replacement work.

Portell said he laid off extra workers he had on sewer projects a week ago, and that while some funds have been expected from the Emergency Disaster and Relief Agency, he has been unable to get the money. He said more serious sewer breaks are located at Anchorage Homes, on Spaulding and at the Nameoki School area. There is a "serious problem" on Franklin Avenue at the recreation hall, he noted.

"There's no question that we have some serious problems. The sewer breaks cause a severe threat in times of heavy rains. The barrier on streets at pumping locations are inconvenient and operating the pumps is expensive," the street superintendent said. Asked for an estimate of costs to repair broken sewers, Portell said he could not set a total figure but that "100,000 should go a long way toward making repairs."

Endorsed by trades council

Mrs. Helen Hawkins, 2600 Angela Drive, who is seeking appointment as a trustee to the Nameoki Town Board, received the endorsement of the Tri-City Trades and Labor Council last night.

Delegates from 27 union locals were present to hear Mrs. Hawkins explain why she feels she should be appointed to fill a vacancy expected to be created by the resignation of Norman Fessler, who has moved out of the township.

Make job offer for treatment plant post

A job offer to take over the superintendent post at the Granite City sewage treatment plant will be made to Terrance W. McMillan, now associated with the Champaign-Urbana treatment plant, at a salary of $26,000 per year, the City Council was informed Tuesday night.

Alderman Glen Sprankle, chairman of the council's pollution plant committee, told the aldermen that his committee has been interviewing prospective candidates for the post and that McMillan has all the available licenses and operating degrees to qualify as a superintendent at the plant here.

Sprankle said McMillan has an A-1 operator's license, the highest available, rating in that field.

Granite City has been seeking a new plant superintendent to succeed the late Robert Jackson. Sprankle said McMillan will be contacted this week to determine if he will accept the position.

Area aids Labor holiday drivers

REACT VAN, set up for the Labor Day holiday weekend safety break at Don's Shell Station, Interstate 270 and Highway 111, is equipped with a citizen band radio and a telephone. The mobile unit's base antenna can be set up almost anywhere, providing the van with base station power and reception. The Free Spirit React Team hosts motorists on major holiday weekends, helping them relax, enjoy a "break" and regain the alertness necessary for safe travel. Below, member "Arizona Roadrunner," Lee Riley, sends out a call to highway travelers on I-270 to come in and take a break. Free refreshments were served, donated by local merchants. Numbers were down this time because of high gasoline prices, according to React club members.

Ministers to meet Monday

The first meeting of the fall for the Quad-Cities Ministerial Association will take place Monday, Sept. 10, at Nameoki Presbyterian Church, 1700 Pontoon Road, starting at 12 noon.

A luncheon will be served by women of the host church prior to the meeting, according to Pastor David Fielding of Hope Lutheran Church, association president.

"The Holy Land: Fresh Perspectives" is the title of a program to be presented by the Rev. Don F. Pierson, pastor of Nameoki Presbyterian Church, and his son, Andy.

The Quad-Cities Ministerial Association is open to Christian ministers of all persuasions in the Madison, Granite City, Venice and Mitchell areas. Pastor Fielding said the group provides a fellowship where matters of community concerns and interests are shared and professional skills are enhanced.

Participants who meet on a regular basis have developed a heightened awareness of the various agencies that provide helpful services which have greatly benefited their ministerial effectiveness and competence, it was noted.

Rev. Fielding and other association officers are extending a special invitation to newly arrived ministers in this area to join them at Monday's meeting, as well as those who have resided here for a longer period of time.

The friendship and exchange of insights and viewpoints, along with the varied programs, makes this an important time even in the busy schedules of area ministers," Rev. Pierson commented.

Madison Recreation Director Sam Dymas presented Lee with a first-place trophy, the club-sponsored Little League baseball team, ages 6 through 10.

President Lee presented a plaque to the immediate past president, Al Hudzik, for his service to the club during the 1978-79 year.

President Lee said, "I would like to thank the Granite City Press-Record and Rotarian Mick for the excellent coverage in the Aug. 22 on the fine work the telephone pioneers are doing to help others."

Rotarian Leo Schermer reminded the Rotarians that the United Way drive begins on Friday, Sept. 14, and Dick Kismar would serve as Madison chairman. Schermer said Kismar will be at next Wednesday's meeting with prospect cards for the Rotarians to work for United Way pledges.

Madison cuts levy $85,900

A new tax levy of $238,050 for the 1979-80 tax year, representing a drop of $85,900 below last year's levy of $323,950, was adopted by the Madison City Council in a regular meeting Tuesday night.

City officials said the decline in the levy is represented entirely by the loss of taxes that would have been provided by the tax rate for personal property valuations.

The assessment and taxation of corporate personal property was eliminated this year under the Illinois Constitution adopted in 1970.

Al Hudzik, city comptroller, said the city expects to receive enough replacement tax funds from the state to make up the loss in personal property taxes in this year's levy.

The levy figures received by the Madison Council show that under the present levy total, the projected tax rate for the 1979-80 tax year would be $2.162 per $100 assessed valuation, compared to last year's rate of $2.057. The rate for the 1977-78 year was $2.172.

The general fund levy was set at $30,000, down from $36,000 last year, while the police pension levy was set at $25,000, down from $40,000. The levy for municipal retirement is $43,000, down from $70,000.

A levy of $18,000 was approved for police purposes, down from $21,500, and the levy for the fire department, was set at $18,000, also down from $21,500.

A levy of $20,000 was approved for liability insurance, down from $35,000.

Randall Schmidts parents of son

Mr. and Mrs. Randall D. Schmidt, 716 W. Buckingham Place, Chicago, became the parents of their first child, a son, born Sunday in Chicago.

The infant has been named Robert James. He weighed six pounds, 13 ounces. The father, a former resident, graduated in 1972 from Granite City High School South and from the University of Illinois in 1976.

He received his Juris Doctorate from the University of Chicago in June and is now employed as an attorney by a Chicago law firm.

The infant's mother is the former Judith S. Scheer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Scheer of LaGrange, Ill.

The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. David Schmidt of Granite City. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cline and Mrs. Emil Schmidt, all of Granite City, are the paternal great-grandparents.

AUTO VANDILIZED
Mrs. Iommia Murray, 634 Main St., discovered that between sometime Saturday and 3: p.m. Wednesday two tires on the passenger side of her husband's car had been cut by vandals.

Teachers

an "institute day" scheduled for Tuesday. Eighty-nine persons attended, including administrators. There are about 630 teachers.

Reacting to the size of the turnout, the school administration canceled initial classes for students Wednesday and today. Teachers' position was that, in the absence of an agreement, most of them decided as individuals not to report for duty.

As a School Board meeting was nearing its 11 p.m. conclusion Tuesday, some of the board members and administrators left at 10:15 for an eighth bargaining session. Their destination upon leaving the board office building was Granite City High School North, where those representing Local 743 were waiting for the district's team.

Part of the board meeting was an executive session called to enable the negotiators to obtain instructions from the full board.

With the negotiations at North not starting until the late evening, the talks went past midnight and then continued on through the "week hours." At 5:20 a.m. Wednesday, the tentative settlement was achieved.

As soon as the preliminary accord was reached, teachers alerted other teachers to assemble for a meeting last night at the Granite City Township Building.

The hall was nearly filled, and Local 743 President Shirley Stoll estimated that 350 were present. She and other members of the negotiating team explained the proposal and answered questions from the group, she said after the meeting.

"We tried to have all the materials ready but couldn't complete everything. We'll have additional information for the Local 743 members at another meeting set for Thursday night (tonight)," she told the Press-Record.

"No votes were taken. The entire meeting consisted of a discussion, with no action taken."

"Our negotiators will recommend acceptance of the tentative agreement, and I hope and expect that it will be ratified," she said.

Some teachers voiced a preference in the 1978-79 school year for any future settlements to be voted on at least 24 hours after they had been outlined to the union membership. The combination of last night's informational meeting and tonight's voting provides such an interval.

Jobless

compensation revisions were enacted during the Walker administration, he related.

Rep. Steele listed a series of developments in which companies have decreased their Illinois activities and have expanded or expanded their operations in states bordering Illinois and in Sunbelt states. He said the new revisions in unemployment pay regulations fail to deal adequately with many loopholes and instances of fraud.

As administered by the U. S. Labor Department's Employment and Training Administration and the individual states, unemployment insurance is intended to provide temporary income as partial compensation to jobless workers.

Nearly 14 million people received about $13 billion in UI benefits in the most recent fiscal year tallied. Under UI, claimants must have been employed and must have earned a specified amount of wages or worked for a certain number of weeks, or both, during a base period established by state laws.

They must also, according to the requirements, be able to work, available for work, and seeking work.

Engineers

the city is going to need all available MFT money to finance ward street improvements next spring.

City Engineer Monroe Brewer told council members that there should be no reason for depending upon motor fuel tax funds to pay engineering costs because that outgo will be covered by the $1.7 million gift by Granite City Steel which enabled the city to complete its financing for the overpass.

Brewer said the latest cost estimate has been set at $5.6 million for the two-lane span and that this figure includes the cost of the Keene & Associates contract.

Alderman Charles Douglas asked at one point how Keene & Associates became involved in the city's consideration of an engineer for the project. Mayor Schuler replied that the firm was "highly recommended" by top representatives in the engineering field.

EPA

ditional $1.8 million in anti-pollution installations at the sinter plant and pay damages in the white ash fallout of 1977, although the company continued to disclaim responsibility for the fallout.

In its consideration of the proposed agreement, the pollution control board noted that the plan involved a reduction in a $10,000 penalty against the steel firm by the amount paid out in damages.

In an interim order, the board said: "On July 20, 1979, the parties to this action requested that a stipulation and proposal for settlement be adopted by the board. First, the settlement allows the $10,000 proposed penalty to be reduced by the amounts paid to citizens in settlement of their property damage claims."

"The penalty herein is designed to assure that property damage claims are settled. It does not aid in the enforcement of the act or induce compliance with regulations. It is not the board's duty to expedite the settlement of private claims and the board does not now intend to extend its authority over this area."

"The penalty herein is a contingent one. The board does not aid in the position of contingent or suspended penalties; they interfere with the board's duty to determine the penalty amount and the conditions under which the penalty is warranted."

"The board hereby rejects the stipulation and proposal for settlement. The case is remanded for further proceedings consistent with this order."

Randall Robertson, attorney for Granite City Steel, said he expects the next step in an effort to comply with the board's order will consist of further discussions with EPA officials.

Stallings

who will attend this center. To send them to the Alton area would cost about $105 a day, while actually our costs will be reduced to $30 a day, an annual saving of over $13,000."

Those who have indicated some interest in renting or buying Stallings School include the Pontoon Beach Lions, Central Baptist Church, Metro-East Lutheran High School and the township.

An ordinance that would have abolished the job of assistant city street superintendent, a post now held by James Stack of the city's sanitation department, was defeated by motion at the regular council meeting Tuesday night. METRIC SYSTEM

It's getting our measurements

By ROBERT ESTILL

WASHINGTON—The day when motorists bemoan or boast about how many kilometers they get to the liter may not be too far away.

Kilometers have not replaced miles on the nation's highway markers, but they share a place with miles (1.6 kilometers equals a mile) on the speedometers of new cars.

Gasoline is being sold by the liter (3.7 liters to the gallon) at some service stations in California, Michigan, Maryland, Minnesota, Arizona, and Iowa and at about half the gas pumps in Hawaii.

Metrics are inching—or, more appropriately, centimetering—toward their way into the American lifestyle.

The metric movement is spurred more by economics than by government pressures.

The U.S. Metric Board,

Work on rail crossings near Illinois Route 3

The Illinois Department of Transportation said today that all road crossings along the Illinois Terminal Railroad track paralleling Illinois Route 3 from A. O. Smith Corp. in Granite City through Hartford, to a point north of Ferguson Avenue in Wood River, will be closed on each of four separate days during September.

The closures will be necessary to allow the railroad to upgrade the trackage with continuous welded rail that is installed in 1,500-foot lengths.

The first two days of closure will be of approximately one-half day duration and each of the last two days will be of one-day duration.

The work is being performed as part of the Illinois Terminal's maintenance program.

The department is asking that motorists be alerted to the work and to be "patient and cautious" when traveling.

created to promote and coordinate the nation's conversion to metrics, is one of the few federal agencies without regulatory powers. Congress decided in 1975 that the conversion should be voluntary.

But marketplace pressures are having an effect, and gasoline is a prime example.

With the price of gasoline at $1 a gallon or higher, service station owners have to alter their pumps, explained Malcolm O'Hagan, the metric board's executive director.

Adding a fourth digit (reflecting dollars, cents and tenths of a cent) to the price-per-gallon indicator costs about $200 per pump for the nation's 1.5 million pumps, O'Hagan said.

The metric measure indicator from gallons to liters means only installing a gear at a cost of about $50 a pump, he said.

O'Hagan said the gasoline industry generally supports the switch to liters (where state regulations make it possible), but they do not have enough mechanisms or installers to do it on an overnight basis, he said.

Many stations that have reached the dollar-a-gallon price are using a half-gallon price as an interim step.

O'Hagan believes gasoline will be sold by the liter nationally by January, 1983, the goal set by the national association which represents state weights and measures officials.

The board's focus is on trying to generate public awareness and acceptance of metrics.

For example, the sponsors of this spring's "Great Jumping Frog Contest of Calaveras County", a California event celebrating Mark Twain's classic story, were persuaded to use metrics.

The board even had its own entry "Kilometers are simple to learn, would make for easier comparisons in the supermarket and help in world trade," O'Hagan said.

About 95 percent of the world's population is on the metric system. The only nakathon from miles to kilometers at the board's request.

"We have been trying to interest backers of all sorts of sporting activities to adopt the meter as a public education device," he said.

The emphasis is on international sports, such as track and field events where meters already are used to some extent here and exclusively in the Olympics.

Football fans can relax. There is no push for the day to come when its fourth down and two meters to go.

"Football is a domestic sort that is well entrenched," he said.

"There is no good reason to change it. It would be foolish to meddle with football just to make it metric."

But if the day ever comes when football fans decide a longer field would improve the game, then the board might push for a switch to metrics.

The whole idea is that it is voluntary—whether it is in sports, business or any other area.

"No one is going to convince anyone to switch voluntarily unless there is some benefit," O'Hagan said.

But the board does advertise the benefits—such as being able to design and package products that can be sold here or abroad.

Public attitude is still the biggest obstacle to the conversion.

"Some people go so far to claim it is a Communist plot," O'Hagan said.

"They say it is un-American, a foreign system, a way or the Communists to confuse us. That is at the irrational end of the spectrum."

More commonly, people are afraid they will not be able to cope with it, do not see a benefit or fear they will wake up some morning and find metrics in place.

Some of the benefits are that metrics are simple to learn, would make for easier comparisons in the supermarket and help in world trade, O'Hagan said.

About 95 percent of the world's population is on the metric system. The only nations which have not converted are the U.S., Burma, South Yemen and Brunel (a sultanate near Borneo).

"We were the first country to see the benefits of decimal currency," said O'Hagan.

"We are among the last to see the benefits of adopting decimal weights and measures."

The public need not fear an instant conversion.

Congress first legalized use of the metric system in 1866, and in 1875 the U.S.

was among the 17 nations which signed the treaty of meter, leading to the international use of the system.

FADING FASHION

No tears for the necktie

By ED ARMSTRONG

SPRINGFIELD—Neckties "seem to be on the way out," a restaurant manager in Los Angeles said in comments to United Press International about the effects of President Carter's order that air conditioner thermostats be set at 78 degrees or higher in public buildings.

That could be the best news some of us long-suffering males have had about clothing styles in many a year.

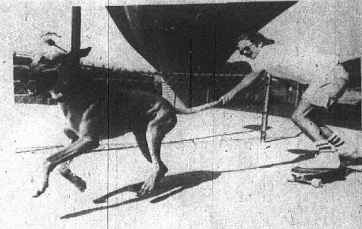

The tie has been an article of dress for the white-collar crowd for generations. I don't really understand why.

Granted, it adds a touch of color, a bit of decoration to men's dress. But think of the price we pay for it.

I don't mean the dollars a tie costs, although that is a consideration. Per square inch of material, the tie is frequently the most expensive thing in our wardrobe.

But the principal price is the discomfort of tie-fetters collars and the care we must take to keep the tie out of places it doesn't belong—such as soup bowls or the clutches of mechanic.

Male vainly refuses to recognize the need for larger shirts or declines to discard those he already has.

TAKEN FOR A RIDE—Jason, a 5-year-old golden retriever and Great Dane mix, pulls Mike Sedley on a sledboard. It is not certain whether Mike had a choice in the matter of his destination.

Why do men tolerate such oppression as is visited on them by the necktie?

I'm sure there are some who do not find ties oppressive. They do not mind buttoned collars or they like the looks of ties sufficiently to forget about any discomfort ties cause.

For most of the rest of us, it is a matter of doing what society expects. We are expected to be well dressed on the job, and that means wearing a tie or a coat and tie.

Nevertheless, fashions have changed over the years. Starched collars have gone, so have spats, and most men wear belts instead of suspenders. Few wear hats for dress anymore.

I'm not an advocate of the do-your-own-thing dress code adopted by many in the late 1960s and early 1970s that said if you feel like wearing a pair of beat-up dungarees that's what you should wear—anywhere, any time, and I don't object to ties for the really special dress-up occasions.

But if ties are on their way out as a piece of apparel for daily wear, and if the higher thermostat settings hasten their demise, there won't be any tears about it from me.

Protect ability to hear

(SIU School of Medicine)
One of man's most valuable assets is his ability to hear. Without this sense, his development of speech would be next to impossible and his ability to interact with others in society sharply curtailed.

Dr. Alan Rubenstein, an otolaryngologist in the Springfield area, says that while most infants are born with hearing that is unimpaired, illness and injury are all too frequently responsible for hearing loss in children.

"However," Dr. Rubenstein adds, "parents who are aware of the possible problems may be able to prevent any permanent or significant damage to their child's hearing."

Otitis media, or infection of the middle ear, is a common cause of hearing loss in children. The child with otitis media usually suffers from a severe earache that often follows a cold or sore throat accompanied by a high fever.

If medical attention is sought at this point, treatment of the middle ear infection will very likely be successful.

If the infection is allowed to continue, however, the child may develop an ear which chronically drains a yellow malodorous fluid. Or the child may develop a middle ear which stays filled with fluid. In either case, the victim's hearing will begin to deteriorate.

The infection in the middle ear can also spread to the mastoid bone, a large bone behind the ear, causing serious complications.

Some will remember how frightening a prospect mastoiditis was in the 1930s and before. Unfortunately, younger parents who grew up after this period are not impressed by the potential dangers of ear and mastoid disease.

"But even after the middle ear and mastoid have been infected," says Dr. Rubenstein, "the otolaryngologist can still help."

Today's antibiotics, when given properly, can cure most infections, while newly developed tympanostomy tubes keep normal air pressure in the middle ear.

Tympanostomy tubes are small plastic tubes which are placed through the ear drum itself to maintain the free passage of air. They are effective in dealing with accumulated fluid in the middle ear and preventing recurrent acute infections.

These vent tubes preserve hearing, and avoid deterioration of the affected ear.

Enlarged adenoids can also cause middle ear disease. "Where there are definite indicators that adenoids are causing fluid to accumulate in the middle ear by effectively blocking the Eustachian tube," says Rubenstein, "they should be removed."

Dr. Rubenstein believes that many cases of otitis media can be prevented. "It goes without saying that the general health of a youngster greatly affects his chances of avoiding ear disease," says Rubenstein. "Good nutrition and prompt attention to colds and sore throats help prevent ear infections as well as maintain good general health."

The maintenance of proper humidity and temperature conditions and the proper management of allergy problems are also important in the prevention of middle ear infection.

Dr. Rubenstein advises that infants be fed in an upright position to avoid otitis media. "It is believed that the infant who is fed lying down may be prone to middle ear disease because of the milk flooding the Eustachian tubes."

Avoidance of injury to the child's ear can prevent potential hearing damage. Most ear doctors teach that cotton swabs should never be used in anyone's ears.

"Aside from causing sore, itchy, scaly ear canals, a cotton swab all too frequently can perforate or rupture the eardrum," he says.

Firecrackers should only be used under strict adult supervision, since damage to hearing, as well as other injuries, can occur.

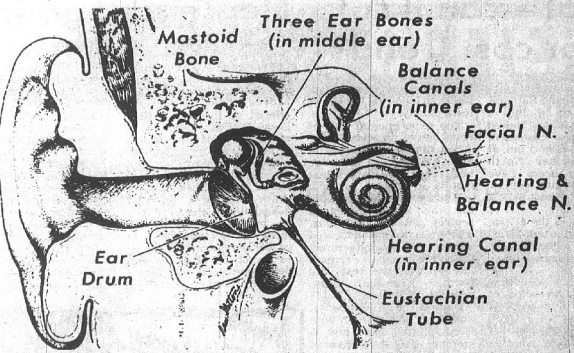

Prolonged exposure to loud noises, such as from target shooting, loud stereos, or attendance or participation in rock group performances, may adversely affect hearing.

"It is important for parents to be aware of earache, draining ears and signs of poor hearing," says Dr. Rubenstein.

"Many parents mistakenly attribute the lack of responsiveness associated with a hearing loss to stubbornness or distraction."

Those who would like more information on otitis media and hearing loss may contact their county medical society or write to SIU Health Facts, Southern Illinois University, School of Medicine, Springfield, Ill. 62706.

Governor urges lower tax levies

Local governmental agencies are receiving letters from Gov. James Thompson urging them to reduce tax levies established before the state legislature approved a tax to replace the corporate personal property tax.

Some area agencies, including Chouteau Township, have already lowered their tax levies to correspond to the replacement taxes and other governmental bodies set their levies with hopes a replacement tax would be authorized.

Others, however, have levied for the same amount of income through taxation as in previous years, which will produce a "windfall" income next summer if homeowners pay the full tax burden and the replacement tax income from corporations comes as a "bonus."

The text of Gov. Thompson's letter follows.

Many of you have been concerned, as I have, about the replacement for the corporate personal property tax. After lengthy deliberation, the legislature and I agreed on a replacement tax that meets the revenue needs of local governments, while imposing the fairest taxes on replacement taxpayers.

Now, I am writing to you to express my strong concern that local governments may unintentionally raise real estate taxes in a time when we must hold the line on government spending. Very simply, the problem is this: the loss of personal property valuation means that almost every local government and taxing body will have a smaller local property tax base.

However, each of these local governments will also receive replacement tax revenues to make up for lost valuation. In many cases, a local tax levy that is filed at last year's tax level will result in increased real estate taxes because it is extended against a reduced tax base.

There is really no need to levy increased taxes against real estate when replacement tax revenues will be distributed early in 1980. Many units of government have September filing dates. I wanted to write this special plea for your help in holding down rising property taxes.

The replacement tax was enacted to replace personal property tax collections for 1979. I strongly urge you, after determining your budget needs, to reduce your total levy by the estimated amount of personal property taxes to be collected for your taxing district in 1979.

The Illinois Supreme Court has agreed to hear a case challenging the constitutionality of the replacement tax. This court test is needed to insure that the tax can withstand future challenges. I am confident that the replacement tax will be upheld. If it is not, I will call the General Assembly into special session to deal with any problems caused by an adverse ruling.

It is important that every local government and school district develop their 1979 levies with extra care.

Kenaf—can it cut paper cost trend?

Publishers' Auxiliary — Since Consolidated-Bathurst Ltd. announced in July a price increase to United States newspaper customers this fall of $30 a short ton, at least eight other North American producers have followed suit with similar price hikes, to about $375 a short ton.

A look back to the $175-a-ton price quoted U.S. customers in 1973 evokes groans from newspaper publishers.

By now, constant escalation in the price of their basic raw material is an old, sad story.

Producers have justified the price spiral by pointing to higher labor and energy costs, but another factor is the cost of producing pulp from trees.

Recently, a plant specialist in the U.S. Department of Agriculture's regional research center in Peoria lauded an alternative to trees as a pulp base that holds promise of trimming costs — kenaf.

Kenaf — or Hibiscus cannabinus — is related to the common hollyhock.

According to Marvin O. Bagby, who heads the research center's fibrous products research unit, the plant's fibers should make it possible to produce "many, if not all, of the various kinds of paper that are currently being made by the pulp and paper industry."

Addressing the annual meeting at Northern Illinois University, DeKalb, of the Phytochemical Society of America, Bagby said kenaf is a "practical source ready for exploitation by world-wide pulp and paper manufacturers."

Although no North American newspaper producer appears to be planning to use kenaf on a commercial scale immediately, its potential has not gone unnoticed.

During the last two years, the USDA's lab has experimented with kenaf pulp for producing newsprint.

In an experimental roll proved that the kenaf paper was essentially identical to the commercial newsprint we used for comparison, Bagby said.

Since 1973, the research institute of the American Newspaper Publishers Assn. has been following the USDA tests closely.

The experimental roll of kenaf newsprint was used for a test run on the presses of ANPA member newspaper, with excellent results, in 1977.

When government funding for the kenaf research project ran out last year, ANPA stepped in and located a newsprint manufacturer, which has chosen to remain anonymous, to test the plant's practical commercial application.

Donald N. Soldwedel, publisher of the Yuma (Ariz.) Daily Sun and a member of ANPA's board of directors, headed the organization's newsprint committee when the government funding to grow a kenaf crop last year fell through.

Soldwedel, however, found a friend who farms nearby who agreed to grow a crop after getting the kenaf "bug" while attending a meeting at the Peoria research center.

Although best suited to semitropical climates, kenaf has been grown as far north as Minnesota, New Jersey and Oregon.

Soldwedel suggests that widespread growth areas would make possible the regionalization of newsprint mills in this country, drawing on local kenaf crops for pulp. That should reduce newsprint freight costs to publishers.

An average acre of kenaf, Soldwedel says, is likely to yield more than nine times the pulp as an acre of comparable forest land.

Soldwedel's friend has harvested the Yuma crop and the harvest, after being chopped and cubed, was sent to a newsprint research facility for tests.

The anonymous producer already has told Soldwedel it is ready to move beyond a pilot pulp unit using kenaf to commercial pulping operation.

Meanwhile, interest in kenaf, where counts among newsprint producers — is growing, he says, as two more newsprint companies (also anonymous) have contacted him seeking kenaf samples for pulp testing.

Lieutenant governors back O'Neal world trade efforts

Jackson Hole, Wyo. — The National Conference of Lieutenant Governors, during the 18th annual meeting, unanimously approved three resolutions offered by Illinois Lt. Gov. Dave O'Neal, designed to stimulate the United States economy and "assist the nation in regaining its position as the unsurpassed leader in world trade."

The measures adopted during the weekend call on the president and Congress to devise tax incentives to encourage the private sector to invest in research and development; re-tool plants and equipment; form a

North American energy pact with Mexico and Canada to achieve self-sufficiency in energy for the continent; and, have the president and Congress analyze the constraining statutes and remove any artificial barriers to increased exports.

O'Neal said, "The United States has experienced a dramatic reduction in public and private investment for new technology, which has seriously affected national economic progress."

"There is no reason why this nation should not be offering the best goods in the most effective ways possible." He said, concerning a North American energy pact, "The U.S., Mexico and Canada have an extensive common interest in meeting the energy needs of this continent. Achievement of this goal will require an intensified effort for cooperation between these three countries."

In regard to increasing U.S. exports, O'Neal said, "As we have seen in Illinois, it is more than desirable to increase exporting of products from this nation to other countries."

"Illinois is second in the nation in total exports and this has provided thousands of jobs and millions of dollars for our economy. Other states should aggressively undertake this policy, which can directly boost the total economic well-being of the entire U.S."

"It's about time the federal bureaucracy begins to fight for our citizens and businesses, instead of strangling us with more and more regulations."

"Up to this point, I see only a negative approach to government by the president and Congress, not the positive thrust we so badly need in Washington."

seeking is a better quality of life for every citizen, especially those persons on low and fixed incomes who are being forced deeper and deeper into debt by the energy crisis, inflation and the de-stimulating policies of the federal bureaucracy," O'Neal concluded.

National Conference of Lieutenant Governors has spoken in a unified voice and I trust that Washington will heed our words."

He serves on the executive and economic development committees of the National Conference of Lieutenant Governors.

The Institute of Lifelong Learning will hold a no-host luncheon at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville on Sept. 14.

It will be held at noon on the second floor of the University Center in the area formerly occupied by the School of Business. Meal tickets are $4.

It will be a time of sharing experiences, achievements and anecdotes of the past year, along with a discussion of plans for the upcoming year.

Jog your memory—jogging clinic planned here Sept. 11

While some people are unable to visualize 15 miles, except by car, there are people in the immediate area who are jogging this distance daily—people like Judy Ponsler, one of the guest speakers for St. Elizabeth Medical Center's Jogging Clinic on Tuesday, Sept. 11.

A dietitian and exercise technician for the Cardiac Rehabilitation Program at Washington University, she works with heart patients and their spouses on exercise and dietary programs three days per week.

These programs, designed specifically for the individuals' needs, involve stress tests on treadmills, warm-up calisthenics and workout prescriptions.

Running is a hobby she picked up when she arrived in St. Louis. "I hate to see a fat dietitian, so when I came here a year and a half ago, I looked for a place to work out."

"I did a lot of swimming and gymnastics in college but there weren't any facilities near where I lived, so I started running a couple of miles every other day."

She has just run her first marathon, which qualified her for the Boston Marathon to be held this coming spring.

She will be speaking at the first SEMC Joggers' Clinic Sept. 11 at 7 p.m. in the Kettler Center gymnasium.

Demo club to hear Toffant

The Granite City Democratic Club will resume its monthly meetings beginning at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 12, at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 21st Street and Edison Avenue.

"The program planned for the meeting will feature Madison County Sheriff Emil Toffant. Let's have a big turnout for this Democratic officeholder," President Dewey Melton said today.

"The fall and winter meetings, as we approach the spring primary election, should be interesting. We traditionally have attendance by those who would like to become Democratic officeholders."

"Meet the people who should serve us. In this way, you can continue to be the kind of enlightened, informed, and involved citizen that makes our democratic government work."

The speaker will stress "running for your health, weight reduction, and exercise."

She will be included on a discussion panel with Ed Mercer, program director of the Tri-City Area YMCA and an officer of the newly-formed Granite City Striders Running Club; and John Fernandez, a medical-legal researcher.

The clinic is designed for beginners and advanced runners and is open to the public.

Refreshments will be served. Reservations are being made by phoning the SEMC Public Relations office at 786-3167.

Edmund Hasse funeral

Funeral services for Edmund C. Hasse, 53, who died Monday at John Cochran Veterans Hospital in St. Louis, took place Wednesday afternoon at a funeral home in Edwardsville.

An assistant professor in the department of mass communications of the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville School of Fine Arts and Communications, he had been on medical disability leave since October 1977. He had been in declining health for some time and entered the veterans hospital Sunday.

Mr. Hasse served as assistant director of University News Services at both the Carbondale and local campuses of SIU before he assumed a full-time teaching assignment in the Humanities Division at SIU in 1967. He was a former bureau manager for United Press International and editor and assistant publisher of All-Florida Magazine.

He also was a former assistant editor of Sigma Delta Chi's publication, The Quill, and had served as president of the Southern Illinois chapter of the professional journalism society.

A native of East St. Louis, Mr. Hasse had written hundreds of by-lined articles which appeared in local, state and national publications in addition to Sigma Delta Chi. He was a member of the St. Louis Press Club, the Advertising Club of St. Louis, Kappa Alpha Mu and Kappa Tau Alpha. He also had been a member of the American College Public Relations Association.

Survivors include his mother, Mrs. Agnes Hahney of St. Louis; three sons, James of Lexington, Ky., Paul of Washington, D.C., and Mark of Dallas, Tex.; two sisters, Mrs. Byron (Doris) Stevens of High Ridge, Mo., and Mrs. Ralph (Margie) Donnon of Evansville, Ind.; and four grandchildren.

September is apple picking time in great (Illinois) Southwest

By CHRIS DOLL
Area Gardener Adviser

September is the principal apple month in Southwestern Illinois.

In 1979, the season is a little later than normal, but apples are maturing and will be ready for picking in a week or two.

Most varieties will be in prime condition in late September and early October.

Just because apples are showing lots of color doesn't mean that they are ready to pick. There is a best time for harvest, and an art in picking. Folks who like "green" apples can pick them anytime.

The time for harvest is based on the condition and maturity of the fruit. The first indication of harvest time is when normal, unblemished fruit begins to drop.

Wormy and diseased fruits usually fall first.

Then check to see if the flesh color has turned from green to yellow-green as noted by the bottom end of the fruit.

The taste test should indicate some sugar content rather than starchiness. Red apples should have good skin color.

But just because the skin is red doesn't mean the apple is mature. There are red color sports of major varieties that color early but mature at a normal time.

When they are picked before they reach proper maturity, flavor will be lacking and full quality will never develop.

When all the maturity signs are present, the apple should pick easily with the stem attached to the fruit. This is done by rolling or twisting the apple away from the fruit spur.

If apples are paired or clustered, grasp both or all of the fruits with the other hand while twisting off the first one. Avoid breaking the fruit spurs and branches in the trees, as this will reduce yields in subsequent years.

Picked fruits should be gently placed in a container, and handled carefully thereafter to avoid bruising.

Harvested apples should be kept cold for retention of flavor and quality. When stored at 32-35 degrees F., apples change very little. At 40 degrees F., the fruits ripen slowly, and at 60 or higher, maturation proceeds rapidly.

Thus, a refrigerator or a neighbor's cold storage is the ideal storage. The second choice is a good cave.

Anything less than these should be short-term storage only.

Plastic bags are an excellent container for holding apples in refrigerators. They should either be perforated slightly or folded loosely to permit a little moisture to escape.

Open boxes or baskets permit moisture loss from the fruit, and this lowers quality.

In caves or basements, apples should be placed in a nearly air-tight container. Plastic bags may be used, but constant inspection for excessive moisture and fruit rotting is needed.

New season for Mt. Zion circle

The Ella Mae Missionary Circle met Tuesday morning in the Fellowship Hall at Mount Zion General Baptist Church to start its new season.

Personal testimonies were given by each member and Mrs. Flo Monroe spoke on the needs of missionaries in foreign fields and at home to carry out their mission work.

The lesson, "God's Work Concerning Missions," was given by Mrs. Deana Williams.

Mrs. Gleola Graves sang two hymns she had written before a short business session was conducted by Mrs. Mary Goodall, president.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Ann Schubert and Mrs. Lillie Graf.

Also present were Mesdames Carolyn LeMaster, Harriet Phelps and Bessie Phillips.

A guest was Lana LeMaster.

Disturbances end with 8 arrested

Eight persons were arrested in a series of disturbances in Kirkpatrick Homes Tuesday night and early Wednesday. Two fires, unrelated to the disturbances, also occurred in the housing project during the night.

The first disturbance occurred at 7:40 p.m. Tuesday when youths sacked mattresses and trash in the alley behind the apartment of Graden W. Rowe, 67, of 1408 Kirkpatrick Homes, and he called police. While officers were investigating, Vernon L. Fortin, 47, of 1505 Kirkpatrick Homes, allegedly approached Rowe with a baseball bat in his hands.

Police alleged when they returned to Rowe's apartment, Rowe was in the doorway holding a pipe and Fortin had a bat. Both were arrested and charged with disorderly conduct. They later were released on police to appear in court.

At 3:30 a.m. Wednesday, what witnesses described as "a small battle" took place in the 2700 block of Kirkpatrick Homes, police were told.

Margo Taylor, who resides in that block, said she was talking with three young men at her apartment when a group of four men arrived and members of the two groups argued about a motorcycle. She ordered the four to leave and they complied, but returned a short time later, one armed with a .22 caliber handgun and the others holding clubs and tire irons.

They grabbed Bobby Griffin of State Park Place, dragged him outside and struck him repeatedly with clubs, causing bruises and cuts, it was alleged. Others joined in the fight and about 75 persons came out of their apartments to watch, police said.

The fighters left before police arrived. Officers told everyone to go inside or be arrested. A short time later, officers were told there was a disturbance in front of Margo Taylor's apartment and arrived to find the two who had been there earlier with Bobby Griffin.

They allegedly were "agitated" according to officers and were arrested and charged with disorderly conduct. Arrested were Steven W. Hooten, 21, and Robert G. Hooten, 25, both of State Park Place. Police said they still are searching for the four young men who fought with Griffin and the Hootens.

In an attempt to restore order, police ordered everyone to go home. Kevin R. Cochran, 19, of 3808 Kirkpatrick Homes, was arrested for allegedly roaming around the housing project without a legitimate reason, according to officers.

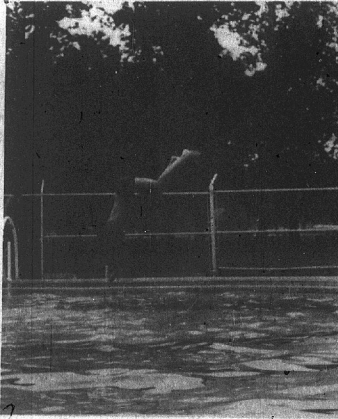

At 4:10 a.m. Wednesday, fire broke out in the apartment of Diana Morris, 3204 Kirkpatrick Homes, and caused an estimated $400 damage to the building and $200 damage to its contents.

The cause of the fire is unknown, but vandalism is suspected since the owner was not at home when the fire started in a couch.

An earlier fire at 9:55 p.m. Tuesday caused $550 damage to a vacant apartment at 3406 Kirkpatrick Homes. That fire also started in the couch, but maintenance men said the apartment was locked when the fire was discovered and there were no signs of forced entry.

SPLATTER-PLATTER PARTY—a splashing good time. Park District teens during the weekend enjoyed all of the fun of the Wilson Park pool and the sounds of their kind of music, spun by disc jockey Henry Mulnik (above left)

The event held Friday night, is one of the many activities sponsored throughout the year by the Granite City Park District board. Harold Brown is the director of parks and recreation.

Mayor promises action on alley

Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk took to task Tuesday night individuals who have written public letters critical of the city government's performance.

At a regular council meeting, the mayor said, "I read in the paper a couple of items I would like to respond to. The first comment I want to make is that if these people would have taken time to call me or contact their aldermen they could have had all their questions answered."

"In reference to the asphaltting of the alley between Kennedy and Elizabeth streets, this has been approved for the past two years. We're not going to asphalt all the alleys in the city and then just ignore one. We have had a problem of property lines."

"We are going to put down stakes just where the property lines are and then asphalt the alley," Sasyk said.

In commenting on an overnight trip to Florida, the mayor said, "First let me say this is no pleasure trip. I don't like to fly to begin with. When you fly down early in the morning and fly back the next night and spend 18 hours in meetings, that is no vacation."

In regard to taking two aldermen, that is simple. I don't want this to be just my decision. I want the opinions of the elected council members.

"I personally see the city operating its own cable television and benefiting everyone. We should be able to offer our residents lower rates, with the same or better service, and provide additional revenue for the city."

"We can save 20 to 25 percent in costs and still make money for the city," Sasyk said.

Fourth Ward Alderman Christ Costoff said, "I would like to have Carl (Ropac) say something to the council."

Carl J. Ropac, 1323 Grand Ave., addressed the council, requesting that it overrule a zoning board rejection on him building a garage. He maintained that only one resident was objecting and that this person "causes problems for almost everyone in the neighborhood."

Nine residents accompanied Ropac to the council meeting.

Mayor Sasyk asked him to obtain a petition with signatures stating the neighbors have no objections to the garage, and bring the petition to the next council meeting, in order to have the matter considered.

Sasyk said the aldermen could not consider the topic Tuesday night, since the council had not received notification of the zoning board action.

Lock-dam trial slated next week

After five years of delay, the trial of a suit seeking to block construction of a new lock and dam two miles downstream from Alton Locks and Dam 26 is scheduled to start Monday, Sept. 10.

U. S. District Judge Charles R. Richey said yesterday in Washington, D.C., that he will proceed with the case, filed against the government by railroads and environmental groups.

The new facilities are intended to replace small, aging lock facilities that are scheduled for delay in Mississippi River shipping by up to four days this summer, President Jimmy Carter took note of the waterway congestion and bottleneck at Alton during his week-long paddled boat trip in August.

Judge Richey yesterday dissolved an earlier court order that prevented the Army Corps of Engineers from opening bids for one of the first phases of the lock-dam replacement project.

The Bernard McMenamy Construction Co. of St. Charles, was the apparent low bidder at $7,200,000 to build a structure protecting the river bank from erosion damage during construction of $30 million facilities including a new 1,200-foot lock.

correcting the problem, and asked that the council members intervene in the matter.

Aldermen Warren Decatur and Glen Sprankle of the Fourth Ward said they had received several calls from the Coopers, complaining of the situation.

Portell said he had raised the level of his yard but that he was not sure of the construction of a retaining wall was sloped for runoff to an alley area and that he did not consider the work a threat to the property next door.

A letter signed by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cooper, read as a communication at the council session, complained that in building his home and yard area, Portell had raised the level of his ground 16 inches above that of the Cooper property, causing water runoff that has damaged the Cooper yard.

The letter said the couple has been unable to get Portell to do anything about file.

On a motion by Alderman Charles Douglas, the council voted to place the letter on file.

Portell said he had raised the level of his yard but that he was not sure of the construction of a retaining wall was sloped for runoff to an alley area and that he did not consider the work a threat to the property next door.

A letter signed by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cooper, read as a communication at the council session, complained that in building his home and yard area, Portell had raised the level of his ground 16 inches above that of the Cooper property, causing water runoff that has damaged the Cooper yard.

The letter said the couple has been unable to get Portell to do anything about

Subsidence insurance may be waived in area

Granite City is an area not threatened by cave-ins of old underground coal mines or tunnels and therefore an area in which residents may waive the new insurance against subsidence which will be provided in all new or renewed policies on real estate after Oct. 1, Mayor Paul Schuler said in a statement Tuesday.

The mayor's statement said: Beginning Oct. 1, every policy issued or renewed insuring on a direct basis a structure located in the State of Illinois shall include, at a separately stated premium, insurance for loss caused by mine subsidence.

Under Article 38 of the Illinois Insurance Code, which was recently approved, mine subsidence means loss caused by lateral or vertical movement of structures including collapse, from collapse of man-made underground mines or mine related excavation, including, but not limited to coal mines, clay mines, limestone mines, and flourspan mines.

"Any loss caused by earthquake, landslide, volcanic eruption, or collapse of storm and sewer drains and rapid transit tunnels will not be included by this coverage. Billing for this coverage will be automatic as a separate item on the individual next fire insurance policy. Due to lack of man-made mines in the American Bottoms which include Granite City, the citizen, upon receipt of the billing should contact their insurance agent so as to clearly understand the coverage and also to make a decision whether to waive the new coverage or not."

Waiving this coverage should be done in writing or on the appropriate forms which should accompany the billing. Granite City area is one of these areas where waiving of this coverage should occur due to lack of man made underground mines.

Further information regarding mine subsidence coverage can be requested from the Property and Casualty Division of the Department of Insurance, State of Illinois in Springfield. The Division phone number is 217-782-4515.

Several suggestions were made Wednesday night at a public hearing in the Venice city hall to solicit ideas for the potential use of Community Development funds.

Mayor Tyrone Echols, who chaired the meeting, said, "Several good suggestions have been made and they will be considered by the council. I just hope we do get some of the money. What we're talking about is $400,000 that is for all Madison County. We will need to submit a good solid proposal, with facts and figures, to get any part of it. We really are not guaranteed anything."

"The council will be discussing the various ideas at our meeting which we will hold on Monday at 8 p.m. rather than Tuesday," Echols said.

Among the suggestions made by the 20 citizens present were: continuation of the home rehabilitation program, installation of burglar alarms for senior citizens, purchasing of the Dunbar school building from Madison, street and sewer improvements and paying the delinquent sewer bills.

The session is free, and the luncheon charge will be $3.

Charge 2 in car burglary

Grant Dawson Jr., 19, of 2628 Alexander Ave., and Gary R. Caughron, 18, of 2871 Madison Ave., were charged Tuesday evening with burglary in informational documents from the Madison County state's attorney's office.

Police first responded to a report of prowlers at Hoppe's Tavern, 2807 Edwardsville Road, and were told a gold auto had just left the scene without headlights or tail lights.

The auto was seen a short distance away and the driver turned on the lights when the squad car approached. The car was stopped at a roadblock on East 23rd Street near Nameoki Road and the driver, Charles H. Freiner Jr., 23, of 2221 Alexander Ave., was charged with driving without headlights.

The two passengers in the car were arrested after papers and items bearing the name of Bruce Heidemann were found. Heidemann said he was sleeping in his car in the parking lot of Hoppe's Tavern when someone entered the car and stole several items, including his wallet, $15 in cash, his $175 wristwatch, a trophy, keys, a box of papers and photos, a gun clip and some Army clothes.

The trophy was found in weeds behind the tavern and the papers, photos, gun clip and clothing allegedly were found in the auto in which the suspects were arrested. Police said the wallet, keys and wristwatch are still missing.

Freiner was released after discussions with detectives indicated he was not involved in removing the items from the car, police said.

Dawson and Caughron were held with their bonds set at $25,000.

HURT ON CYCLE

Edmund Wilkison, 18, of Rural Route One, Box 65, Granite City, went to St. Elizabeth Medical Center Tuesday after being injured in a motorcycle accident. He suffered a cut to his left eyebrow and below the eye and was treated and released.

Personal tax loss cuts new GC levy

By HARRY BARNES

A new 1979-80 Granite City tax levy of $2,943,471—the first levy since the constitutional phase-out of personal property taxes—was adopted by the City Council Tuesday night.

The new levy is $712,838 less than last year's extension of $2,756,300 because of the elimination of 1979-80 personal property tax income under provisions of the 1970 Illinois Constitution. City Attorney Lance Callis told the aldermen that while the city will lose funds under the regular tax levy, they will be made up by state allocations of the replacement tax which will be distributed by the Illinois Department of Local Government Affairs. Callis said Granite City is scheduled to receive an amount equivalent to 31 percent of the general fund levy, or approximately $550,000.

Replacement funds are expected to be distributed in January which, Callis said, is an advantage over a regular tax extension because taxes are not collected usually until mid-summer.

The new tax levy is based on a total city budget of $10,884,825, which is made up of $9,013,601 in general and other funds, and $1,881,227 in other accounts.

The difference between the budget and the amount of the tax levy is made up of receipts other than taxes received by the city. These include fees, license, permits, state income and state sales taxes.

Woman and child abducted

A man displaying a knife forced a Granite City woman to participate in a deviate sex act after threatening to harm her 10-month-old child early this week.

The woman said she and her child were in a telephone booth in the 1500 block of Madison Avenue when a dark blue Ford Torino with a black interior and a loud muffler stopped and the driver, who weighed about 300 pounds, asked her where she was going.

She said she was going home and the man offered her a ride, Madison County deputies were told.

She said she would walk and he showed an opened pocket knife and told her to get in car or he would kill the child, she reported.

They drove on Madison Avenue and she told him where to turn to take her home, but he continued on Madison Avenue, saying he was going to find someplace dark. The victim said she screamed several times but he continued driving to Reveille Lane and stopped at the County Nature Trail under the Route 111 overpass, south of Pontoon Beach.

She said he then showed the knife again and told her to put her child on the front seat and get in back. He threatened to stab the child if she did not cooperate, she told deputies.

At one point, he put a piece of her clothing around her neck and started to choke her, she said. He forced her to participate in a deviate act and then took her to a Pontoon Beach tavern and let her out. She notified Pontoon Beach police. She described the man as about 5 feet, 5 inches tall, having wavy hair, a full beard and mustache and wearing wire rimmed glasses.

Burglary charged

Walter E. Boehler, 25, of 2436 rear E. 24th St., was charged with burglary and attempted burglary in informational documents issued by the Madison County state's attorney's office Tuesday.

It is alleged Boehler attempted to gain entry to the home of Ralph Pieper, 2444 E. 24th St., at 1 a.m. Saturday. Pieper's daughter was awakened by a noise at the window and when she opened the curtains, she saw a man opening the window. She recognized him as a neighbor, she said. The man fled when he saw her. Police later arrested Boehler, who pleaded innocent in court in Granite City at 3:50 p.m. Tuesday and was jailed in lieu of $20,000 bond.

Driver charged with assault

Lester L. Farmer, 24, of 2534 Lincoln Ave., was charged with assault, reckless driving and not having a city sticker after an incident in the 2600 block of Lincoln Avenue at 4:45 p.m. Tuesday.

A woman resident of that block alleged Farmer's car drove up and down the street several times in a reckless manner and she went into the street and yelled at the driver to slow down, because there were children present, police were told. When the car came past in a reckless manner again, the woman threw her shoe at the car, it was reported. The vehicle then stopped and the driver got out, cursed at the woman and threatened to hit her. He also allegedly said he did not care about the children in the street.

Farmer was released at 6:20 p.m. Tuesday after posting $170 cash and his driver's license for bond.

MAN IS FREED

Granite City police have released the young man who was being held in the investigation into the theft of a bag containing $500 from the bridal table at a wedding reception Sunday night. Officers said there was insufficient evidence to link the young man with the theft during the reception for Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Wilkinson, Rural Route One, Granite City, at the American Legion Hall.

Postal Service making great strides, so why take on added cost of sending GC mail to St. Louis?

Long mired in red ink and mounting operating deficits, the Postal Service said this month that it soon expects to announce its first revenue surplus since 1945. The surplus could exceed $400 million for the 12 months ending Sept. 30.

In the face of higher fuel costs, which have forced an extra $60 million expenditure to keep its 240,000 vehicles rolling, the accomplishment seems particularly noteworthy.

Mail volume is soaring and may reach a record 99 billion pieces despite last year's frost in the first-class letter rate from 13 to 15 cents.

The annual federal subsidy of nearly $1 billion continues but is dwarfed by the total fiscal 1979 revenue figure of $18 billion. Discounts are being offered to big-volume customers who agree to pre-sort their mail, and other innovative programs are being tried.

All of this indicates that the Postal Service has made a lot of progress in its efforts to bolster productivity, cut unnecessary costs and achieve a better balance between services, revenue and expenses.

State allowing pension funding to fall farther behind

An article on Page 2 of today's issue spotlights growing concern about the currently inadequate funding of state-supported pension systems.

Judging by data gathered by State Comptroller Roland W. Burris, Illinois' retirement provisions leave much to be desired:

1. The Downstate Teachers Retirement System has the greatest liability load, up more than $1 billion since 1970. Its obligations represent 54 1/2 percent of the total unfunded obligations of all five state pension systems. The security ratio (SR)—assets vs. liabilities—is 49.9 percent, far short of the 66.23 percent recommended by the Pension Laws Commission.

2. Liabilities of the State Employees Retirement System have almost tripled (2.8 times) since 1970. SR is 47.3 percent. Appropriations and investment income would have had to average $30 million more in each of the past ten years to reach the minimum standard.

3. Income to the University Retirement System has doubled in this decade, but liabilities have increased 3.5 times. SR is 48.6 percent. Added income of $28 million in each of the last ten years would have been necessary to achieve the minimum level.

4. Judges Retirement System income has increased 2.7 times, but liabilities or payout obligations have risen 4.4 times since 1970. SR is the lowest of the five systems, 30.4 percent, less than half of 66.2.

5. Another $5 million yearly income would have been needed to attain the minimum recommended funding.

6. In 1970, the General Assembly Retirement System's assets totaled 70 percent, but today that ratio is 50 percent. An additional $500 million in each year beginning with 1971 would have maintained a two-thirds funding ratio.

Suppose we were to attack automobile insurance directly. Although federal standards now are set at 19 miles per gallon, cars person would pay the $200 million to reach the minimum standard.

7. Income to the University Retirement System has doubled in this decade, but liabilities have increased 3.5 times. SR is 48.6 percent. Added income of $28 million in each of the last ten years would have been necessary to achieve the minimum level.

8. Judges Retirement System income has increased 2.7 times, but liabilities or payout obligations have risen 4.4 times since 1970. SR is the lowest of the five systems, 30.4 percent, less than half of 66.2.

9. Another $5 million yearly income would have been needed to attain the minimum recommended funding.

TEACHERS' PENSION BILL

Money-saver — or step to bankruptcy?

By JOAN MURARO

SPRINGFIELD — Reactions have been decidedly mixed on Gov. James R. Thompson's action recently in signing a bill which will permit teachers at the age of 55 to buy five years of pension and retire without any discount of their benefits.

Though Thompson hailed the bill as a money-saver which will give local school boards and administrators more flexibility in dealing with staffing and funding problems, taxpayers' groups and pension experts such as the state's own Pension Law Commission charge it could lead to Illinois following New York City to bankruptcy. Overbureaucratization of public employee pensions has been given a large share of the blame for New York's financial plight.

Ed McCreight, pension expert for the Illinois Taxpayers' Federation, said the bill is "a terrible bill which sets a terrible precedent." He warned that past experience indicates teachers and school administrators, backed by the powerful Illinois Education Association (IEA) first gain sweeping benefits for teachers, and other public employees immediately follow suit, demanding — and getting — the same benefits.

"The state of Illinois should never have been in the position of selling pensions," McCreight said. Under the previous program, teachers had to take a 30 percent discount on their benefits if they retired before 60.

Now, a teacher will be required to make a one-time-only contribution to the pension fund of 35 percent of his salary for the year. The school district will have to contribute a sum equal to 100 percent of his pre-retirement pay. This money, McCreight said, usually comes out of educational funds.

Thompson, in signing the bill, said it would "relieve pressure on local school district funds through a savings plan when a tenured teacher retires. The increased pension costs will be offset by savings which are real and demonstrable."

The Taxpayers' Federation and other groups which actively opposed the bill maintain that instead a teacher with 30 years of experience, earning $20,000 a year, who retires at 55 will receive an extra $81,000 in benefits over a 20-year period. In that 20 years, the teacher could take up a second career in the private sector, while continuing to receive $1,340 in pension checks yearly. A few years later he could retire from his second job and regularly receive three pension checks a month—the teacher's pension, one from his second job, and Social Security payments.

Proponents urged that replacing higher-paid, experienced teachers with new, lower-salaried teachers would open the job market while saving school boards money.

Instead, says McCreight, the "new" teacher in a very few years will also be earning that higher salary while the previous teacher is still drawing hefty benefits.

Opponents have charged the governor's action in signing the bill would add at least another $35.5 million to the existing $2.3 billion in unfunded liabilities in the downstate teachers' pension fund.

The enormous amount of accrued unfunded liability in various state pension funds has been a cause of concern to many for years. Presently the downstate teachers' pension fund is only 46 percent funded, though it is generally considered that 66 percent is the minimum level for safe funding. Adding several millions more to the unfunded liability will hasten the time when, some experts say, public pension funds including those for teachers — may not have the money to pay retirees the pensions to which they are entitled.

Though McCreight and others also maintained that the bill as signed will involve the state in no new problems it should be the boards' obligation to settle. Thompson said the bill will "control the abusive practice of substantially increasing a retiring teacher's last year salary to boost the four-year average used to compute benefits. A 20 percent cap will be applied by the bill to the average."

Government less efficient than marketplace in developing energy

By WILLIAM K. REILLY

President,

Conservative Foundation

The president's energy proposals should be opposed vigorously by both environmentalists and business leaders. This may seem an "unholy alliance."

— unrealistic and unworkable. But consider the following.

Suppose President Carter's energy program went exactly according to plan. There would be no impact on oil imports in the next five to seven years.

Imports might be reduced by a recession but not by this energy program. Synthetic fuels might begin making a contribution by the late 1980s, if we are lucky.

We would have the dubious distinction of buying heavily subsidized synthetic oil at a price higher than OPEC would likely charge for the natural product.

We would certainly have lost ground on our environmental progress.

The costs to our federal system of an Energy Mobilization Board riding roughshod over local and state governments would have been immense.

Suppose the cost of spending $8 billion on synfuels, we spent $10 billion on improving the energy efficiency of existing homes in a minimal way.

Over the lifetime of those improvements, 3.5 billion barrels of oil would be saved, a saving that equals buying imported oil at less than $2 a barrel.

The savings to homeowners who pay the $20 billion would be $102 billion at today's oil prices.

Suppose we were to attack automobile insurance directly. Although federal standards now are set at 19 miles per gallon, cars perform much worse in the real world.

For model year 1978, the average EPA mileage estimate for all automobiles was 19.6; but studies at the Department of Energy indicate the actual average was 16.4.

If we take into account the growth of sales of vans and light trucks, the fuel efficiency of the nation's passenger fleet would be much worse.

Automobiles use about 30 percent of our petroleum. Since both foreign and American manufacturers know how to build cars that conserve gas and perform well on the road, a tightening of standards — or strong economic incentives for drivers to buy fuel-efficient cars — could cut gasoline consumption in half.

Industry already has shown the way toward energy efficiency. According to the recent Harvard Business School energy report, Dow Chemical has cut its energy consumption per pound of product by 40 percent.

When oil is available in attics and under floors and in industrial plants for prices ranging from 50 cents to a few dollars per barrel, it makes little sense to embark on a program that may produce only a limited quantity of oil by 1990 at prices far above alternative sources.

Thus, the plan is bad for the nation's wallet and for effects on the environment and on business?

Accept for a moment my environmentalist's viewpoint that a massive synfuels program is bad for the environment, and let us consider how it is bad for business and industry.

The president has suggested a program that removes a vital part of the American economy from the normal controls of competitive free-market tests. Centralized decision-making, investments controlled by bureaucrats, tax dollars raised and spent ordinarily congressional and judicial oversight: These are hardly the ingredients of a program to be supported by thoughtful business leaders.

How do we get from here to there on a path less marked by moonshot dreams and more characterized by careful attention to real opportunities for improved efficiency and meaningful increases in production?

The first step is clearly decontrol of energy prices, including the price of gasoline, the limited steps taken by Congress and the White House need to be speeded up.

Also, the problem of making public utility rates conform more to the replacement cost of electricity and industrial gas need to be faced.

It may come as a surprise to many in the business community to learn that environmentalists support this use of the market.

In fact, the Sierra Club, League of Women Voters, Natural Resources Defense Council and my own organization, to name a few, have been strong and consistent supporters of decontrol efforts.

Such a call for pricing that reflects the full costs of energy consumed is fully consistent with environmentalists' view of the world; that we can have economic growth and improved productivity with fewer investments of natural resources.

In addition to the producing force of the market — rewarding innovation, discouraging uneconomic practices and capital expenditures swiftly and impartially — we need research and development program that is responsive to tests of economic feasibility, not to a single-minded policy decision made once-and-for-all by Congress and administered by a massive bureaucracy.

In such an R&D program, synfuels might play a part, but they would hardly be the centerpiece.

Using the test of total cost to the nation, including environmental costs, we should plan to commercialize the inexpensive energy-saving and energy-producing technologies before we go on to the expensive ones.

It is clear that the proposed "synfuels or bust" strategy is one that has been outlined above is one that can be supported by many in the environmental community and industrial gas need to be faced.

But the president has gone in completely the opposite direction.

He has proposed an enormous investment in unproven technology, directed and funded by government agencies outside even the usual minimal control exercised over such bureaucracies, and purposefully insulated from marketplace tests at all.

All this without a single short-term benefit to the country.

I believe it makes sense for important interests outside government to cooperate in confronting the energy peril.

Of course, there is much that separates business and environmentalists. But cooperation is possible even without consensus on every detail of energy policy.

The worry doesn't show

By KEN WATSON

SPRINGFIELD — Is the United States heading for the pothouse?

If so, nobody in this part of the country, at least, seems to be very worried about it. That's the conclusion we drew from a leisurely week of vacation that took us to St. Louis, Chicago and parts of central and southern Illinois.

President Carter made a developing intell feeling of impending crisis in the land. But in this, as in other endeavors, he appears to have failed.

People may indeed be unhappy about high utility bills, soaring gasoline prices and generally rising property taxes. But if they are ready to make big personal sacrifices to whip the energy crisis and presumably keep the economy healthy, there are precious few signs of it.

One of the most interesting developments of this far-from-typical summer has been the gasoline shortages that have popped up in various parts of the nation. The President and Illinois Gov. James R. Thompson have urged every driver to abide by the national 55 mph speed limit. Ha!

On a Saturday baseball trip to St. Louis our driver who qualifies by family composition as well as name as a typical American, dutifully set his cruise control at 54 as we moved out on Interstate 55.

The net result was that in coming and going we were passed by just about everybody and everything but the Atlanta Braves. Station wagons filled with Little Leaguers, housewives probably standing for a shopping spree, campers — some towing boats — chartered buses and even an occasional motorcycle whizzed by us.

The worst offenders by far were the big over-the-road truckers, an impression subsequently strengthened in other vacation driving. The truckers are clearly contemptuous of the 55 mph limit and flaunt it with all the gusto of a prohibition era drinker.

It is not unusual to see the behemoths roaring down the highway in full view of craning state police cars. One cannot avoid a suspicion that someone along the line has passed the word to lay off the truckers.

The obvious leniency being granted truckers can hardly encourage the average motorist to stay below 55. It is obvious, too, that most of the latter, never convinced that the gasoline shortage was for real, are quickly returning to their normal driving practices.

As the average Illinoisan is not too worried about the gasoline situation, neither does he appear unduly concerned about the threatening business recession. Nowhere is this more apparent than in our giant place setter of Chicago.

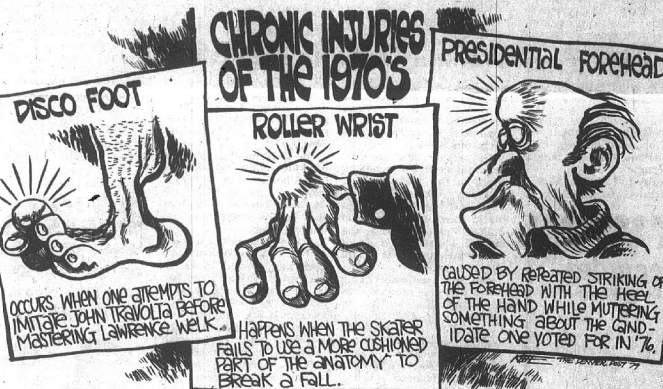

In Chicago they never do anything amiss. And the construction boom now underway in the city's central area must surely be one of the biggest of all time. If there is an empty space somewhere, someone is finding something on it, and the cost is always way up in the millions.

Judging from the floor displays in the stores, one follows in the course of the Illinois Legislature, it would seem that Chicagoans are upset about the prospect of another fare increase for their buses, elevated and subway trains. But, if so, you don't hear them talking much about it.

virus on to each uninfected bird on which they feed.

Later, when the mosquitoes begin feeding on humans, they then pass the disease to them.

Huck said that Gary Clerk, who heads up the mosquito control for the department, said that the extremely limited number of positive new infections from more than 100,000 tests of "virus" pictures look even better than it did last year, and we had no cases last year.

PERSIMMON PROJECT

'Economic consideration'

By ED ARMSTRONG

SPRINGFIELD — Researchers are known for coming up with strange-sounding projects. So when a copy of "Ag Review, 1979," a summary of research efforts of the faculty, graduate students and staff of Southern Illinois University at Carbondale came across my desk, I wasn't surprised by the titles of most of the studies being reported on.

Included were some acintulating ones as "A model for predicting loan quality in the Sixth Farm Credit District," "Analysis of farm real estate investments," "Fundamental and technical factors affecting the cattle-hog price spread," and "A comparison of liquid protein supplements with two levels of soybean supplemented rations for lactating cows."

But one caught my attention. It was "Economic consideration of a persimmon enterprise."

Anyone with roots in Southern Illinois knows what persimmons are, but for the uninitiated, Webster describes it as "Any of genus of trees of the ebony family with white, cup-shaped flowers, hard wood, and yellow or orange-plum like fruit which is sour and stringent when green, but sweet and edible when ripened."

When I was growing up, we had a persimmon tree that provided shade for livestock, but we never thought of it as good for anything else. Apparently some others have.

A professor and graduate student at SIU say in their study that in addition to the wild persimmon there are a number of adaptable varieties. That surprised me, because, while the persimmon could stand plenty of improvement, it's hard to believe anyone would spend his time trying to improve it.

It would be like trying to improve the mulberry or the crabapple. There the great success has been to develop a fruitless mulberry. But the researchers are not talking about a fruitless persimmon. Their consideration is growing the persimmon as a marketable fruit.

"Persimmons may be grown over a wide area in eastern United States," the researchers said. "They will tolerate a wide range of soil and climate conditions." No argument here on that. In fact, if you leave a tree around a few persimmon trees uncultivated for a few years, you can make a career of chopping out persimmon sprouts.

New infections unlikely

By KEN WATSON

SPRINGFIELD — In a summer marked with dollar-a-gallon gas, fuel shortages, inflation and threats of recession, the Illinois Department of Public Health has some good news.

It doesn't appear likely there will be an outbreak of St. Louis encephalitis this year.

In 1975 St. Louis encephalitis struck nearly 600 persons in Illinois, and killed 47. Last year, there were no reported cases in the state, indications from an extensive entomologist watch program conducted by the health department are that things look good for this late summer and fall.

According to Mary Huck, public information officer for the public health department, though blood samples have been taken from 1917 birds this year, on even such a large sample, only two and five of those birds were adults, which means they have been infected in a previous season, she said.

That leaves only two juveniles who have to have been infected this year.

The disease, for which there is no treatment, is spread by mosquitoes, which acquire it from feeding on infected birds. In the spring months, when they are feeding only on birds, they spread it among the bird population, passing the

Rotary governor plans Sept. 11 visit in GC

Rotary District Governor Stephen N. Ferri's official visit on Tuesday, Sept. 11, and the annual Camelot auction on Saturday, Oct. 16, were the major topics of business at the Tuesday noon meeting of the Granite City Rotary Club in the YMCA. GC Rotary President Darryl Slater called on his fellow Rotarians to clear their personal and work schedules for the district governor's visit and expressed a desire for a 100 percent attendance.

Governor Ferri is a senior active member of the East Peoria Rotary club and oversees 49 clubs in District 646 ranging in size from 10 to 288 members, with a total district membership of over 2,800 Rotarians.

Gov. Ferri assumed his duties on July 1 and made his official visit to the Madison-Venice Rotary club on Wednesday Aug. 8.

Rotarians were reminded of the annual Rotary-Optimist joint Camelot auction at the Sunset Hill Country Club.

Members were asked to finish all solicitations for items to be auctioned. Monies raised by the two clubs are used to help worthwhile local projects.

Rotarian Tom Thebeau noted that this was a major fund-raising project of the club.

It was noted that anyone wishing to donate any items to the auction could contact Rotarian Thebeau by telephoning 931-6900.

Mitchell Fall Festival opens 3-day run Friday

By VALERIE EVENDEN
of the Press-Record

Country-western recording artist Nick Nixon will appear from 7 p.m. to 11 p.m. Sunday at the Mitchell Fall Festival to climax the 20th annual event.

The festival starts at 6 p.m. Friday and continues through Sunday midnight at the St. Elizabeth Parish grounds on Greenway Drive, between East Chain of Rocks Road and Interstate 270.

Carnival rides, games, food and beverages will compete for the festival patrons' attention, together with various entertainment featured on each of the three days.

Friday's schedule calls for the midway and booths to open at 6 p.m., with the Joey James Band playing for dancing and listening pleasure from 7:30 p.m. until 11 p.m.

Saturday will see the festival starting at 1 p.m. and ending at 12 midnight, with a carnival ride matinee from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. when reduced prices will be in effect for children.

Also Saturday, the Checkerboard Squares will entertain at 6 p.m., and the music of Art Hines and the Western Gentlemen Band may be heard from 8 p.m. until midnight.

Sunday's festival hours will be from 1 p.m. to 12 midnight, and events will focus upon a wide variety of enjoyable activities for patrons.

Following the trophy ceremonies at 1 p.m., the Jerri Green School of Dance students will perform at 2:30 p.m., and twirlers from the Yount School of Baton will exhibit their expertise at 3:30 p.m.

Throughout the three-day festival, the Sutton Co. rides will be operating and food will be served, including fish and pork steak dinners.

A beer garden also will be available for refreshments. Currently appearing at the Sheraton Inn Country Showroom in St. Louis.

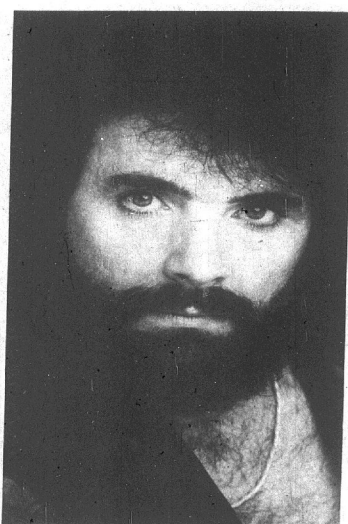

He is a native of Poplar Bluff and presently resides in New Melle, Mo., a small German community about 40 miles west of St. Louis.

Some years ago, Nixon began to write songs with a St. Louis policeman, Don Earl.

Their collaborations were recorded by Tommy Cash, the Wilburn Brothers and Roy Rogers.

Then came the "Teddy Bear Song," which became a smash hit for Barbara Fairchild.

As a newcomer, Nixon penetrated the national country Top 20 listings with releases on his previous label (Mercury), for whom he recorded "Rockin' in Rosalee's Boat," "She's Just an Old Love Turned Memory" and "I'll Get Over You," among others.

He signed with MCA in late 1978 and now has his first MCA album ready for release, "Would You Let This Fool In?"

In addition to the title song, the album features "What Are We Doing, Doing This Again," "Fall in Love," "San Francisco Is a Lonely Town" and a disco-flavored song called "Sassy."

Nixon, who is rated "number one" in the major Texas markets after the release of several single discs, has criss-crossed America for the past couple of years, playing successful concerts in virtually every section of the country.

He has opened state fairs and other major shows for such artists as Dolly Parton, Barbara Mandrell, Jerry Lee Lewis, Charley Pride and the Statler Brothers.

Nixon formed his own group, The Country Soul Band, in 1968 and still heads the same group.

Harry Breckner, president of the Mitchell Athletic Association, said a $1 parking fee at the grounds will help defray festival expenses.

Proceeds from the annual event are used to further the MAA-sponsored youth programs and, this year, will help to meet expenses in the recent purchase of land for youth recreational purposes.

If obtained prior to the opening of the festival, midway ride tickets will cost $5 for 10, with $6 being charged for the same number of tickets after Friday night.

Tickets may be purchased in advance from MAA members, Don's Quick Shop, E and L Quick Shop, Inn Between, Gene's Barber Shop or Donaldson's Cafe. All are located in the Mitchell area.

Mrs. Arnold, 88, dies
Mrs. Stella Mae (Lupkey) Arnold, 88, formerly of 2943 E. 25th St., died at 1:20 a.m. Sept. 5 at The Colonies, following a lengthy illness.

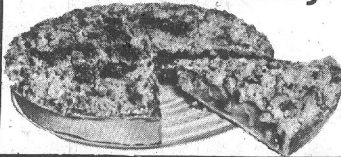

She was a native of Flat River, Mo., and resided in Granite City for 60 years. Mrs. Arnold was a member of Third Baptist Church.

Before retiring in the early 1960's, she worked for five years as a clerk in the former Hoopengartner's Dry Goods store.

Her husband, Calland "Cal" Arnold, died on Oct. 14, 1970, and a son, Myron Arnold, died Aug. 5, 1975. Mrs. Arnold is survived by a son, Vernon "Duke" Arnold of Granite City; one daughter, Mrs. Brooks (Pauline) Weir of Granite City; two brothers, Carl Lupkey of Elvins, Mo., and Homer Lupkey of Herkulum, Mo.; a grand daughter, Mrs. Charles (Shirley) Worster of Granite City; and three great-grandchildren.

From shorts to shoulder pads

MADISON — Football, perhaps more than most sports, at times makes players seem removed from the spectators.

The fact that in order to protect themselves football players must wear extensive padding that covers most of their identifiable parts probably is responsible for the isolation.

Sitting up in the bleachers it is hard sometimes to remember that the players are indeed the same as everyone else.

Underneath the pads and bars and jerseys there is always a person.

In this case that person is Madison quarterback Danny Stern.

In the photograph at right, Stern kneels in shorts and t-shirt in front of his protective paraphernalia. The t-shirt is cut off for the sake of coolness.

In the photograph at right, in the middle, Stern adds shoulder pads and a hip pad girdle. The girdle holds two foam hip pads and one for the tail bone.

Middle right, more padding is added inside the pants. In this case, thigh and knee pads.

Finally, in the bottom photograph, Stern's garb is completed with helmet, chin strap, mouthpiece, and jersey.

The ball is optional.

MADISON — The Madison Trojan football team, a young and mostly inexperienced bunch, will face its first test of the 1979 season tomorrow at 8 p.m. The Trojans will open on the road in Quincy against Quincy Notre Dame. It will indeed be a game of firsts. Charles Steptoe, Madison's first-year head coach, will be at the head of the Trojans in his first game at the top coaching spot. The Trojans will for the first time be playing in the Quad County Conference this season. But tomorrow's game with Quincy Notre Dame won't be one of those conference games. The Raiders of Quincy are 3A independents.

Madison is, this season for the first time, in the 2A classification, after playing last season in the larger-school 3A.

Coming off a 2-7 record of last year, the Trojans hope to begin a turn-around with a strong effort against the Raiders.

One of Madison's seven losses in 1978 came at the hands of the Raiders. The Trojans lost 16-6.

The Trojans, although they have been in preparation long enough to have developed a depth chart, still haven't all the players out head coach Charles Steptoe would like.

Madison players were still arriving for practices Tuesday for the first time, but Steptoe believes the Trojans out already will be prepared to face the Raiders.

Even so, the Trojans will probably have an equally difficult time with the Raiders this time around. Quincy's head coach Ron Davis thinks so.

The point Davis would emphasize in arguing the issue is the return of fullback Barry Moore, a 6'3", 225-lb. junior, was named most valuable player in a summer football camp at the University of Illinois. He was chosen from among 400 players attending the camp. "I think that tells

They're off

GRANITE CITY — It has been an unusual week for Granite City football players, coaches and fans.

Early in the week it seemed as if the start of the 1979 season might be delayed because of the failure of the teachers and Granite City School Board to reach an agreement on their contract.

Players were sent home from practice Tuesday when word reached coaches that still no agreement had been reached.

But yesterday practices were resumed when announcement came of a tentative agreement.

Now, subject to ratification by teachers of the tentative agreement, it seems the start of the season will occur on schedule.

Both Granite City North and South begin the season tomorrow night — North at home against Cahokia and South on the road at Belleville East.

North . . . South . . .

The Granite City North Steelers' first test of the season will be against Cahokia's Comanches.

It will be for both teams the first game against a fellow Gateway East Conference team. For that matter, it will be the first game ever in the new conference.

A good performance by the Steelers against the Comanches would help considerably to erase the memory of last year's 40-10 record.

One of the Steelers' ten losses was to the Comanches, who downed the Steelers 16-0 last year.

To avoid a repeat of that game, North needs to capitalize on its obvious assets — namely its experience.

North returns 24 lettermen from last year, 18 of whom are juniors or seniors. Leading this list is quar-

The Granite City South Warriors and their head coach, Stan Wojcik, hope they know more than they find out in Belleville East tomorrow night.

Wojcik thinks he knows where the Warriors' strength lies, but he isn't so sure of some of the other particulars about his team.

What the Warriors will rely on is their running game. With backs such as fullback Scott Polson and halfback Jeff Bergrader, Wojcik sees the makings of a fine running game.

"We hope to run the ball," Wojcik said. "We have excellent outside speed and Polson is a very hard runner."

But South won't stay strictly to the ground. "We want to pass too," he said. "We hope to be able to keep it mixed up."

Handling the passing duties for the Warriors will be senior quarterback Blake

GRANITE CITY — Although Granite City teachers have yet to officially come to terms with the Granite City School Board, the chances for them doing so look good. Yet, because of the uncertainty, especially in the beginning of the week, both Granite City high school soccer teams have been watching and waiting.

Games have been rescheduled and rescheduled, long-distance phone calls made to coaches, but difficulties in obtaining refs. and games scheduled too close to one another are just some of the problems which soccer has had to deal with and will have to take in stride.

Moral still exists in both high schools, but can a team hold together through the repetition of the same drills tomorrow who knows?

GRANITE CITY — With all the hoopla and attention that the more advanced football teams receive this time of year, it is often easy to overlook some of the other outlets of the game.

Every football player, whether high school, college or professional, started somewhere. More likely than not, their beginnings in the sport were in the little leagues.

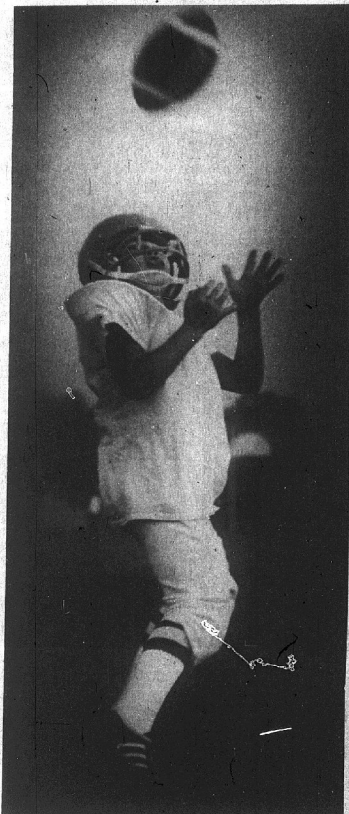

It's here the discipline and skills required of all players are begun, although that fact may also be easy to overlook when the defensive line consists of a group of baggy-pants nine-year-olds.

On this page, the photographs are from a practice session of 12-year-old junior midget players of the Granite City Little Rascals.

Colleges on both sides of river gear up

Eastern Illinois University

CHARLESTON — If the success of Eastern Illinois University's offensive line can be measured in size, then the Panthers will take a back seat to few opponents this year.

From tackle to tackle, the five front men are likely to average 6-3, 240, and deserve as much credit for setting 25 school records as do the backs on last year's NCAA II championship team.

Those measurements give line coach Joe Taylor some cause for optimism although the starting picture is a little more muddled after the sudden loss of two potential starters, Clinton Davenport and Bob Norris. Also Kurt Aloisio, a starter last season, has apparently decided not to play this year.

Davenport was ruled academically ineligible while Norris did not report for fall camp. So Taylor has shuffled people a bit and believes his troops are strengthened by the changes.

One person that hasn't and won't be moved is center Jack Lafferty (Waukegan, Ill., 6-4, 245 senior, who has received most of the attention on the line the past couple years.

"Jack's a definite All-American candidate. He's in the best shape I've ever seen and has the best attitude. He's our quickest and most experienced lineman... a great reach blocker who can handle pulling guards."

"He was only beaten once last year in 14 games, and has attracted the eye of several pro teams."

On both sides of him will probably be Dave Miner (East Alton-Wood River) at right guard and Sam Carson (Maywood-Triton JC) on the left. Miner, who started at tackle in '78, is 6-3, 240.

"We shifted Dave not only to strengthen our line but to boost his chances with the pros," Taylor said. "Dave's probably our most determined lineman... he's got the speed necessary for a pulling guard, but needs to work some on pass protection."

Carson, 5-11, 210 senior, came over this fall to the other guard spot when Davenport was ruled out. "No. 1 to take Clinton's place, so this switch will make us stronger than what we originally thought we might be without Davenport."

Tom Pettigrew (Roanoke, Va.-Catholic), who was shifted last spring from the defensive line, moves to right tackle. "He does have the benefit of three weeks of spring drills plus played on the offensive line a couple years ago so it's not as if he is a novice there," Taylor explained.

"Tom has the size and quickness to get a pro shot. He's excellent on pass protection and has the right temperament for an offensive lineman. He's one of our more consistent players."

The other tackle spot is between junior Carl Dobrich (Chicago-Mt. Carmel), who was already giving Norris a good run in the spring, and JC transfer Steve Watson (Omaha, Neb.-Ellsworth, Ia. CC). Both are in the 6-6, 240 range.

"Carl is the most improved lineman we had since last fall. He worked exceptionally hard in winter weights and this past spring. He's gotten a lot quicker and stronger."

One major reason for Taylor's renewed optimism is the backup corps. Behind Lafferty is Scott Gilleland (Barrington), a letterman who saw action at three line spots in '78.

"Scott is the heir apparent to Jack's position, and will concentrate solely on center this year. In fact if we had to go with him this year we wouldn't lose much," Taylor said.

Behind Miner is Blair Brown (Dayton, O.-Iowa Lakes), another JC transfer who reported to fall camp at 245 lbs. rather than he 230 he was carrying after spring.

"Blair's the surprise of camp... I told him to get down to that weight but wasn't sure if that would take or not. I feel much better seeing him report at that weight."

Tom VanderVeen (Oak Forest), who lettered last year but was not expected to return, is back to challenge at one of the tackle positions.

"He's behind Pettigrew right now but could assume a key role if something happens to the starters. Tom's got the size (6-2, 230) to really help us, and the experience of playing on a championship team... that means a lot."

Also likely to help is Bato Prostran, a 6-3, 250 transfer from Wright JC, who was here this summer working on his own.

"This group is more than just big," says Taylor. "They have a lot of talent. I've never worked with a classic group... it's a coaches dream."

Northwest Missouri State

MARYVILLE, Mo. — Less than two weeks remain before Northwest Missouri State University's football Bears' kickoff the 1979 campaign at Augustana, S.D. Improving the defensive pass rush and bettering the offensive passing game as well as further evaluating the freshmen and transfer newcomers who make up about half of the 75-man pre-season roster will occupy a lot of the time in Coach Jim Redd's workouts this week as the "Cats" ready for Saturday's Green-White game and prepare for the Vikings of the North Central Conference.

Redd and his staff put their charges through a two-hour controlled scrimmage session in 95-degree conditions Saturday and the coach seemed satisfied with the results.

"I think we've made good progress and we're encouraged by the squad's enthusiasm. The junior college players and the freshmen seem to be picking up the system well," Redd said.

Upperclassmen manned the offensive skill spots on

man Todd Murphy, among others, backed up Smith at QB.

Several newcomers, among them Hoyt, Kan. (Royal Valley) junior Kevin Kelly, the transfer from Cowley County, Kan., CC, freshman Donald Lott from Tampa, Fla. (Hillsborough) and freshman Greg Baker from St. Charles, saw quite a bit of action at the running backs. Kansas City (Lille) sophomore letterman Verduin Norwood, Tampa, Fla. (Brandon) freshman Adrian Johnson and Kansas City (O'Hara) sophomore Brad Sellmeyer played backup roles at receiver.

Defensively, the front five featured senior ends Wayne Allen from Avoca, Iowa, and Mark Doll from Council Bluffs, Iowa (St. Albert's) with Kansas City (Southwest) sophomore Al Cade there, too. Raytown (South) senior Lance Corbin and Denton, Tex., (St. Joseph Central) junior Kip Springer at tackles, and Independence (Truman) sophomore Charlie White at nose guard. Decatur, Ill., seniors Rick Tate and St. Louis (Oakville) junior John Farmer were the linebackers. Kansas City (Oak Park) sophomore Greg Lees started at "Cat Back. Craig junior Rod Helfers and Raytown (South) junior Wayne Kindiger were at the corners with Toti at safety.

YMCA power volleyball

GRANITE CITY — The Tri-City area YMCA announced today that it will hold a power volleyball clinic on Saturday and Sunday afternoon from 1-4 p.m. the weekend of Sept. 15 and 16. All aspects of this sport, including proper technique for setting, spiking, and serving, rules, digging, blocking, game strategy, and more will be covered.
 Anyone interested in learning more about power volleyball can enroll by calling the YMCA at 876-7200. The fee for this special two-day clinic is only $5, and class size is limited. The instructor for this class will be Linda McClanahan, who is certified as an instructor by the United States Volleyball Association. It is suggested that all participants bring materials for note taking.

Kenny Schrader from Ballwin, Mo. is the first entry. Schrader, who has four feature wins this year, will be driving the Ray Mahler-Dean Cook sprinter no. 45 from Flat River, Mo.

Also entered is Tom Corbin of Carrollton, Mo. Chuck Anall of Marion, Ill., Dean Shirley of Middletown, Ill., and Larry Gales of Evansville, Ind. plus many other top drivers from around the Midwest.

and practices without knowing when their first game will definitely be played?
 "I hope we don't go out on strike for the sake of the game, especially those in athletic programs," said Bob Kehoe of the Steeler kickers.

"It's very difficult to hold their attention during practice," said Kehoe. "They're chomping at the bit to play."
 A few days ago, a couple of ex-Steeler soccer players came to a practice and we played a little scrimmage against them. We beat them 4-0, I think.

"We are both physically and mentally ready to go, but I'm afraid they might be a little overconfident," said Kehoe.

Coch Gene Baker and his defense, State title Warriors are dealing with chaotic organization. Yesterday morning, they were faced with the practice session in Wilson Park, because the band was using their practice field to practice and Baker was on the phone, trying to reschedule games for this weekend, for the better part of his first hour of South's practice.

"We don't have any type of moral problem," said Baker. "We have a young team and they are ready to play."

"Our practices have been really good. We don't know if we're ready to play until we do, but I think we are," said Baker's assistant coach, Mel Bunting.

South is already plagued by two injuries. Quarterback James has a cast on his hand, over a broken thumb near his wrist, and Phil Beljanski broke his nose, which required surgery. Beljanski could be out the entire season.

"The kids are in very good condition. We've been practicing twice a day since August 15," Baker said. "But, it's a difficult situation if you don't know if you're gonna play or not."

Madison thinks it, has found a replacement for graduated quarterback Carlyn Jackson. Danny Stern, a converted tight end, will open at the position for the Trojans.

Along with Stern in the Madison backfield, Ed McDonald, Troy Butler, and Willie Ball are the heirs to jobs left open because of the graduation of Madison's entire starting backfield from last year.

Quincy Notre Dame recorded a 4-6 record in 1978 but that was with a team made up of primarily of sophomores and juniors. This season the Raiders return five players on offense and four on defense.

According to Davis, though, the Raiders still level of competition had more to do with the under 500 season than did the age of his players.

terback Tim Dudley, who missed the start of last season because of an injury.

Alongside Dudley in the North backfield will be Alan Schmidt, Rick Buhler, and Mike Steen. An offensive line of Ron Pinkston, Scott Humpries, Brian McCullough, Mike Lang, Tim Wyrostek, Joe Bowler, and Pat Mushill will lead the way from the backfield.

If Cahokia's head coach Jim McKay gets the effort from his Comanches he expects, the Steelers' offense will be tested soundly.

"Our strongest suit has always been our defense," McKay said. "We only allowed one touch down in our first few games last year. This year I think we're sound again defensively."

The Comanches defense will be led by its linebacking corps and 230-lbs. tackle Ray Jerome.

But overall, Cahokia will be tested soundly.

something about his ability," Davis said.

As if that wasn't enough to make the Trojans remember all too well their last visit to Quincy, the Raiders have an offensive line that more than adequately supports Moore's defense.

The smallest member of the line is a 5'10", 190-lbs center. The largest is a 6'3", 280-lbs tackle. The average size is 6'1", 205-lbs. Not bad for kids who haven't reached a growth spurt.

A quarterback, the Raiders will start senior Jim Hummert. But don't expect Hummert to put the ball in the air often. Last year the Raiders threw only eight passes against Madison.

"Hondo" Ambuehl. Last year Ambuehl started at times at the position, but this year he will be the number one man.

Wojcik expects a very physical game from the Lancers, who finished 1978 with 7-2 mark. "They always give you a good game," Wojcik said. "They have good sized kids and they're always well coached."

But the fact that South is beginning the season against a strong team has its advantages also. "They're (East) a good team to start with. They're like the Jefferson City team has been for us the past two years. You have to do things well from the start against them," Wojcik said.

Another advantage is starting with North. "We'll have to be sharp from the start. We don't want our confidence destroyed before we have a chance to build it up."

For both teams this first game of the year will have added importance. "You usually have two non-conference games to begin the season," McKay said. "We're starting with North and we'll have to be sharp from the start. We don't want our confidence destroyed before we have a chance to build it up."

The question now for Wojcik and the Warriors is about the defense. "We have holes still to fill," Wojcik said.

Those holes are primarily in the defensive line. The defensive backfield looks fairly well set with John Vrenick, Walt Stricher, and Craig Night holding down those spots.

The linebacking contingent is also fairly set. Tony Singleton and Randy Lupardus are the names there.

"From there we don't know who will start for us," Wojcik said. "We're still looking at a couple of people, but we'll have to make a decision soon."

"From there we don't know who will start for us," Wojcik said. "We're still looking at a couple of people, but we'll have to make a decision soon."

The question now for Wojcik and the Warriors is about the defense. "We have holes still to fill," Wojcik said.

Those holes are primarily in the defensive line. The defensive backfield looks fairly well set with John Vrenick, Walt Stricher, and Craig Night holding down those spots.

The linebacking contingent is also fairly set. Tony Singleton and Randy Lupardus are the names there.

1980 GC Jr. Miss candidates

Pageant Sept. 16 at South

The Granite City Junior Miss for 1980 will be selected Sept. 16 at GCHS South by a panel of five individuals representing a broad range of backgrounds and interests. The judges for the local Junior Miss program were announced today by Betty Tester, Junior Miss committee chairman.

Judges for the competition, which will be held Sunday, Sept. 16, at 7:30 p.m. in the South auditorium, will be the following: Dr. R. L. Halstead, a chiropractic physician. He has been in practice for 15 years. He is the owner of Halstead Chiropractic Clinic in Granite City. Dr. Halstead graduated from Southern Illinois University at Carbondale and Logan College in St. Louis. He was recently named as a board member for a national panel studying effective methods of caring for accident-related injuries. He resides with his daughter, Kelly.

John L. Nau, III, vice-president of marketing for the Coca-Cola Bottling Co. of St. Louis. He began his career within the Coca-Cola industry in April 1969 as a marketing trainee for Coca-Cola U.S.A.

Nau graduated from the University of Virginia. He is presently on the board of directors, Eastern Seal Society of St. Louis, and a member of the St. Louis Ambassadors and the Advertising Club of Greater St. Louis. He and his wife, Barbara, have two children, Elizabeth and Victoria.

Jim Gad, partner in charge of trader relations for Eisenkramer Associates. He attended Westminster College, Fulton, Mo., and began a career as a retail broker with A. G. Edwards.

He then became assistant for the New York-based Wooden Co., where he served as manager in the St. Louis office. He was formerly first vice-president of the Security Traders Association.

Dr. Virginia Moore, associate professor of counselor education at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. She has served as associate director of student affairs, assistant dean of students, and in international Student Affairs.

Some of her activities include the National Association of Women's Deans and Counselors, and St. Louis Chapter of the American Personnel and Guidance Association. Dr. Moore has been responsible for several publications, such as "Group Counseling with Gifted Underachievers."

Dee Dee Wofford, director of John Robert Powers School of Fashion, Finishing and Modeling. She is known for her television appearances in St. Louis. She has produced and sponsored Junior Miss pageants in Illinois and Missouri and has judged over 100 pageants.

Junior Miss has gained the approval of educators, parents and civic leaders," Mrs. Tester said. "Because of its high standards and numerous opportunities for high school senior girls, it is considered among the nation's major youth programs."

DAMAGE GOLF CARTS. Vandals caused an estimated $1,500 to $1,800 damage to two golf carts at the Arlington Golf Club early this week. The carts were removed from a storage area and were driven onto the course where they apparently were used as "bumper cars," causing expensive damage to the bodies, deputies were told.

Sherfy reunion held

The 14th annual Sherfy family reunion was held at The Westerners Lodge, Alton, Mo., Sept. 4-5.

Family members brought their favorite prepared dishes for a potluck dinner.

Following the dinner, a meeting was held during which the activities of the large family were discussed. Officers were elected to arrange the next reunion and see to other family matters.

Re-elected as president was Laverne Gwilling, secretary is Susan Judd and treasurer is Larry Judd.

Out of state guests included Mrs. Barbara (Sherfy) Seward, Baltimore, Md., and Mrs. Sharon (Sherfy) Panek, Louisville, Ky.

The two are sisters who had been trying to locate the rest of the family for some time. They were contacted by the Sherfy family, who believed them to be part of the family. The sisters offered much information and history of the Sherfy family. Stories and information exchanged throughout the day.

It was brought to the attention of those present that a historical marker is now standing, noting the location of a Sherfy house which belonged to Kaspar Scherffig, a native of Germany who settled in this country in 1751 near Gettysburg, Pa. The family name was later changed to Sherfy, also spelled Sherfy.

Also near Gettysburg is a Sherfy farm which is being restored by the State of Pennsylvania as a national historic site. The doors and windows of the farm show scars from being hit by bullets during the Civil War.

A book entitled "The Sherfy Family" by William Emmory Sherfy, later copied and annotated by Robert Brake, told a story of a distant relative who was standing near a fence during a Civil War battle. A minnie ball (bullet), fired from the Confederate side, struck the board fence.

The ball, after passing through a board of the fence, passed through a fold of her dress and, having spent its force, dropped to the ground near where she was standing. She picked it up and saved it. It is now in the possession of Mrs. Heretier, a granddaughter of that lady.

This and other stories of the Sherfy family were told during the day.

Special prizes were awarded to Mrs. Nellie Krieg for being the most senior relative present. She is 92. She was presented with a dozen long-stemmed roses.

Mrs. Alvina Goring received a corsage for being the mother with the most children present.

Mrs. Barbara Seward received a ceramic stein, made by one of the family members for traveling the farthest distance, from Baltimore, Md.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Krieg received the prize for being newlyweds and a another prize.

Amy Judd received a keepsake necklace for being the youngest child present.

Also in attendance were Lois Weeks, Mitchell; Henry Martin and Mrs. Mary Velma Milton, both of Granite City; Mr. and Mrs. Larry (Susan Sherfy) Judd, and daughters Angela and Amy, Venice, Mo.; Mrs. Sharon (Sherfy) Panek, Louisville, Ky.

Mrs. Barbara (Sherfy) Seward, Baltimore, Md.; Virgil Hamilton, Bethalto, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sullivan, Mulberry Grove, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Joe (Mary Velma) Tolle, Godfrey; and Mrs. Jerry Pisarek, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Krieg, Mrs. Nellie Krieg, Mrs. Alice Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Krieg, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Meeden, Mrs. Laverne Gwilling, Ruth Ann Perrin and Mrs. and Mrs. Maurice Goring, all of Alton.

INVESTIGATE THEFT

Granite City police are investigating the theft of a battery from the truck of Charles Buirley, 305 W. Chain of Rocks Road, Mitchell, parked behind the 18th Street Lounge, 18th and State streets early this week. A witness alleged seeing two young men carry a battery from the area into an apartment in the 1700 block of Edison Avenue.

Handbooks to homes of Venice students

Handbooks for the Venice grade and high schools will be personally delivered to the homes of students in grades 4-12 by supportive services staff members.

Mrs. Althea A. Cross, director of Title VII Project MICO, said this week that the purpose of the visits is to provide an opportunity to explain rules and regulations of the grade and high schools, and to inform parents about services that can be provided by the team members through the school district.

Their goals are to enrich the knowledge of the target students about the world of work and to help them improve their daily attendance and their self-esteem, she added.

Team members are Mrs.

Georgia Falwell, counselor and career specialist; Mrs. Linda Cottrell, human relations specialist; Mrs. Earlyne Wilson, career specialist; Miss Dianne Ratliff, home and school coordinator; Mrs. Connie Davis, teacher aide and part-time secretary; and Mrs. Joyce Odom, teacher aide.

The team is funded under a grant by the federal government through the Emergency School Aid Act. The essence of the law known as Title VII was to grant federal aid to school districts eliminating, reducing or preventing minority group isolation and promoting integration.

IN FOCUS

"Holocaust" airing on WW II anniversary

In the year and a half since its first telecast, "Holocaust" has been seen by 240 million people around the world. This September rebroadcast (the nine-and-a-half-hour series will be shown on four consecutive nights, Monday through Thursday, Sept. 10 to 13, on NBC) coincides with the 40th anniversary of the invasion of Hitler's Panzer divisions into Poland and precedes the Jewish High Holy Days.

The made-for-TV film, which Tom Shales of The Washington Post described as "the most powerful film ever made for television," has received more than 30 awards and citations, including eight Emmys, and is still collecting. "Holocaust" author Gerald Green recently won the Prix International Dag Hammarskjöld Award from the World Organization for Diplomatic Cooperation, based in Brussels, for the screenplay and novelization. The award will be presented to Green Oct. 12.

"Holocaust" became required homework in 1978 for many students across the country after it was endorsed by the National Education Association. Study guides prepared by several groups gave a historical perspective on the events portrayed in the film.

For first-time viewers, "Holocaust" is the story of two German families who must live with increasingly radical Nazi policies. Weiss family members, headed by a gentle and compassionate doctor, are systematically deprived of their rights as German citizens. Their very survival is threatened.

Paralleling their saga is the story of Erik Dorf, an impoverished lawyer who rises in influence and affluence when he becomes an aide to the chief strategist devising plans for "the final solution" of Europe's Jews.

It stars Meryl Streep, Michael Moriarty, Fritz Weaver, Joseph Bottoms, Tovah Feldshuh, Sam Wanamaker and dozens more. In Germany, the TV film was seen by one-quarter of the population and provoked a noisy debate as to its veracity. Der Spiegel magazine noted that it accomplished "what hundreds of books, plays, films and TV broadcasts, thousands of documents, and all the concentration camps trials in more than three decades of postwar history never succeeded in doing. It presents to the Germans so strong an image of the crimes against the Jews performed in their name that millions were shocked."

Just how shocked they were is illustrated by the fact that six months later, on last July 3, the German Parliament voted to overthrow a set deadline of 1979 and extend the statute of limitations for prosecuting Nazis for offenses committed during World War II.

Dedicate organ at 2nd Baptist

A dedication ceremony in recognition of the placement into service of a new organ is scheduled at 2 p.m. Sunday at Second Baptist Church, 2100 Illinois Ave.

The Rev. Carl Watkins, pastor, said the public is invited to attend.

A special guest will be Jack Brannon, associational missionary from the Madison County Baptist Association.

The organ with its 400 working parts was built by the Wicks Organ Co. in Highland and installed originally in 1950 at the First Baptist Church of Macomb.

When the First Baptist relocated in Macomb, the entire contents of the church were sold to Frier's Antiques.

Jack Jenkins, minister of music at Second Baptist, learned of the organ's whereabouts and a special music committee began dismantling the instrument in Macomb to inspect the organ.

The congregation voted unanimously May 30 to purchase the instrument and two weeks later a group of church members began dismantling the instrument in Macomb to bring it to its new home.

Extensive remodeling was needed at Second Baptist and a chamber was constructed to house the organ in an area in which the pulpit, choir loft and baptistry were located.

The congregation decided to cover the walls with stone and the Family Fireplace Center completed this portion of the project, Jenkins advised.

The organ consists of four ranks of 24 pipes and a set of polished brass chimneys.

Jenkins said the chimneys had been hidden from view at its original location, but at Second Baptist the gleaming brass is highly visible with the chimneys hanging on the stone walls at the front of the church.

Twenty-seven church members helped to install the instrument here under the supervision of Jenkins.

The instrument sounded its first offering on July 29, played by church organist Betty Grote during a special service.

At Sunday's dedication, slides taken during the dismantling and installing operation will be shown, Jenkins said.

VIOLA-CELESTE PIPE from a Wicks organ is tested by Jack Jenkins, minister of music at Second Baptist Church, 2100 Illinois Ave., where dedication services will take place at 2 p.m. Sunday, commemorating the instrument's installation. The public is invited to attend.

Bionic bust-up

By DICK MAURICE

LAS VEGAS — WAS IT BEING APART OR PRIVATE EYES THAT BUSTED UP FARRAH AND LEE? Hollywood insiders still are putting the puzzle together as to why FARRAH FAWCETT-MAJORS and LEE MAJORS' marriage broke up on the eve of their sixth wedding anniversary.

Some say the fact that they had only been together for four weeks during the last one and a half years proved that absence does not make the heart grow fonder. Both seemed to have put their careers first and their marriages second.

It had been reported that Majors' jealousy may have prompted him to hire a team of private detectives to follow Farrah 24 hours a day, making her life a nightmare.

She has been quoted as saying, "I was watched 24 hours a day. Every time I looked out of my apartment window, they were there. It was impossible to shake them off. They made my life a misery."

The spying took place while Farrah was filming her new space adventure, "Saturn Three," with KIRK DOUGLAS in London. Supposedly, the former $6 million Man wanted the private eye to keep an eye out to see whether Farrah was keeping company with the former Bionic Boy, VINCENT VAN PATTEN, who was supposedly visiting her in London.

No one's quite sure of the reason. But Farrah and Lee have had a bionic bust-up.

Comedian NORM CROSBY is walking on air — and for many good reasons.

First, his nightclub career is riding high. He has already worked 12 weeks in Las Vegas this year and will work at least another eight weeks there before year's end.

Second, his "Norm Crosby's Comedy Shop" syndicated TV series has been renewed for a second season.

Third, his Anheuser-Busch "Natural" commercials are helping to raise the sales of that beverage significantly. And they keep winning major industry awards.

But most important, Crosby will earn well over $1 million in 1979.

HAS ANDY WILLIAMS FOUND THE WRIGHT GIRL?

Friends thought for sure, because of their on-again, off-again romance, that Andy would get together with his former wife, CLAUDE LONGET. Others thought perhaps he would do more than hold hands with ETHEL KENNEDY.

Williams seems to have quieted the gossipers for the moment by flying off to London with LAURIE WRIGHT. Are we about to see a remake of "My Fair Lady"?

with Andy as Professor Higgins and Wright as Eliza Doolittle?

BY GEORGE, NO PSYCHIC PREDICTIONS OR HE'LL BITE YOU IN THE NECK.

"Dracula" star GEORGE HAMILTON gets cold chills at the mention of the word psychic. George remembers all too clearly about his former wife's beliefs in the crystal ball readers.

"Once," he remembers, "she called me in New York and told me that no account was I to fly home on a plane with the number 7 in it. Well, most of the planes were either 706 or 747s, or had a number 7 in either the arrival or departure time, so I had to hang around for two days to get a ride home."

Another time, thoughtful wife advised the actor to sit in a certain seat on his air ride home, which he did — even though he separated a man and a woman, both a bit drunk and wanting desperately to be sitting together, and furious that George would not move.

"But how could I tell them," laughs George, "that I had to sit there because I would be the only survivor of the plane crash?"

BOBBY VINTON'S WEIRDO FAN.

While Bobby Vinton was dining in his favorite restaurant at the Riviera Hotel, a fan ran over to his table, scooped up two handfuls of his spaghetti, and threw it in a paper bag.

As if that weren't enough, she then proceeded to insist that he autograph it in lipstick.

The good-natured "Polish Prince of Entertainment" obliged and sent her on her way.

JUST WHAT THE WORLD NEEDS!

EDDIE FISHER, who for so long has promised to write his "tell all" book, may tell his life story in an all-singing, all-dancing Broadway musical. The show will highlight the singer's rise to stardom through the collapse of his marriage to sex symbol ELIZABETH TAYLOR.

Everyone's wondering how he'll spotlight his life with DEBBIE REYNOLDS, since he claims his book will destroy her.

Wonder if Eddie should reserve seats opening night for ELIZABETH, DEBBIE, CONNIE SMITH and TERRY RICHARDS?

Teen heartthrob is 18

By THOM MEAD
HOLLYWOOD — The TV Mailbag:

Q. Could you tell me how old Willie Aames is? He plays Tommy Bradford in the ABC series "Eight Is Enough." Also, I understand he sings and I'm wondering if he plans any national tours soon? — W.J., Corona, Calif.

A. Aames, who is quickly becoming one of teen-age America's top heartthrobs, is 18 years of age.

Before getting his "big break" in "Eight Is Enough," he appeared in several television commercials as well as minor roles in "Gunsmoke" and "Medical Center." He says he hasn't been out of work since fourth grade.

As for his singing, Aames recently formed a four-piece rock band called Paradise and is searching for a recording contract. Until he records a hit song or album, no singing tour is planned.

Q. What happened to Mike Connors after the popular series "Mannix" went off the air several years ago? I haven't seen him on television since. — F.D., Junction, Va.

A. You haven't been watching the TV closely because Connors continues with a very busy acting schedule. But after eight years with the "Mannix" series, he has steered clear of other series possibilities, concentrating instead on guest roles.

His recent television work has included guest appearances in the television movies "The Long Journey Back" and "Revenge for a Rape." He recently completed a feature film, "Avalanche Express," plus two motion-pictures-for-television, "Casino" and "Amusement Park."

Connors also recently signed as a guest star for the television movie "High Midnight."

Car insurance prices vary

Two factors—where you live and your "class-rating"—significantly influence the premiums you pay on your auto insurance.

For insurance purposes, most states are divided into territories. Each territory has its own rating based on its loss-experience record. Also, drivers are "class-rated" according to statistical guidelines with other policyholders who share similar characteristics. These guidelines recognize that not every driver or every car is an equal risk. They group cars and drivers subject to similar hazards.

Before it can establish rates, an insurer projects the total income it will need from premiums to cover claims and other costs in that state during the period the rates will be effective.

An average rate is then determined for a particular coverage. This average, in turn, is adjusted up or down on the basis of relative risks for each rating territory and classification of car and driver.

"Insurance companies classify drivers by age, sex, marital status, mileage driven, use of car, and accident and violation history," says an insurance spokesman.

"This classification plan aids both insurance companies and policyholders," he says.

For example, policyholders with good driving records pay fewer premium dollars under this classification system than they would if there was no reflection of accident and violation history in the rate structure.

"Insurance companies are able to more equitably distribute the cost of insurance among their policyholders under a classification system."

"The use of factors in the rating system that are beyond a person's control—such as age, gender, and marital status—has been questioned by some. But statistical evidence has shown that these classifications do predict, to a reliable degree, the future accident risk of drivers."

"A more efficient method to classify drivers has not been developed. Also, polls indicate that people feel it would be unfair for everyone to pay the same price for auto insurance."

"Using the territorial-rating method, a car is rated according to the location in which it is normally garaged or parked overnight."

"For example, if a suburbanite drives into the central city area and causes an accident with another suburbanite from a different rating territory, the accident is charged against the two suburban areas, not against the city, for rating purposes."

"This helps keep the loss experiences of 'outside' drivers from unfairly forcing up rates in territories other than their own," he conceded.

"As a group, urban drivers generally pay more for equivalent insurance coverage than do drivers in small towns or rural areas. More property-damage accidents, injuries and fatalities occur per mile of urban roads than per mile of rural roads."

"Repair costs, wages, hospital and medical expenses, and jury awards tend to be higher in metropolitan areas. So accidents involving urban dwellers not only happen more frequently, but also tend to be more costly per accident."

"Thefts and vandalism tend also to be concentrated in the areas of highest population density."

"When a car is involved in a mishap, regardless of where the incident occurs, any insurance loss is 'charged back' to the car's home territory."

"For example, if a suburbanite drives into the central city area and causes an accident with another suburbanite from a different rating territory, the accident is charged against the two suburban areas, not against the city, for rating purposes."

"This helps keep the loss experiences of 'outside' drivers from unfairly forcing up rates in territories other than their own," he conceded.

Traffic crash ratio shows little change

The number of traffic accidents involving personal injuries in the Quad-City area during August changed only slightly from those of the same month a year ago, according to statistics compiled by the Press-Record.

The number of persons injured in those accidents also showed only slight change, while there were no fatalities last month. There were no traffic fatalities in August 1978 as well.

Statistics show a total of 59 accidents in which 74 persons were injured, occurred last month.

This compares with 50 accidents involving 84 persons injured in August last year.

The figures do not include accidents involving property damage only.

The 59 August injury accidents brought to 389 the total number of such accidents during the eight months of the year, while the 74 personal injuries brought to 529 the total number of persons hurt during the eight-month period.

This compares with a total of 426 injury accidents with 602 persons injured during the eight months of August 1978.

There has been a total of 100 traffic fatalities during the eight months of January through August this year, with fatalities occurring in six of the eight months. There were no fatalities last month or in April. Coincidentally, there were no fatalities in August or April 1978.

The largest number of traffic deaths in any single month occurred this year in January when four persons died in traffic accidents.

There were two traffic fatalities in June this year, and one each in February, March, May and July.

SANDERS DUE HERE FOR BALLOON RACE

Colonel Harland Sanders, 89-year-old founder of Kentucky Fried Chicken, will be in St. Louis Sept. 14 and 15 to participate in activities surrounding the Forest Park balloon race, as well as the race itself. He will serve as grand marshal of the balloon parade, which will start at noon, Sept. 14, at 14th and Chestnut streets, proceeding through downtown St. Louis and going east on Olive and then south on Broadway to Kiener Plaza.

Inflating of the "big chicken balloon" is set for Kiener Plaza at 1 p.m. that day. On Saturday, Sept. 15, the colonel will participate in the balloon race introductory ceremonies in Forest Park, and will help launch the "hare" balloon as well as one of the participating "hound" balloons.

THROWN FROM CAR

Larry Fox, 22, St. Louis, was treated at St. Elizabeth Medical Center early this week after he was thrown from the passenger side of a parked car which was hit by another vehicle. He told officials he then ran after the car which struck the parked vehicle and jumped in and stopped it. He suffered pain to his left hip, right knee and left shoulder. X-rays were taken and he was released.

Spending a long weekend at home

Here it is, the Tuesday after a long weekend off. I'm a wreck. I should have spent the weekend taking it easy, but not me; I spent it at home.

I usually take long weekends and use them to catch up on my household. Believe me, that can be a lot rougher on a girl than going to work.

With all that time stretched before me, I decided to tackle a few of the big jobs I had been putting off. DUMB move. Some people just don't know what to do with long weekends.

I attacked my living room, rearranging furniture and cleaning cobwebs out of every corner. That was a little tiresome when you consider that my vacuum cleaner is still on the fritz.

I pushed and pulled, scrubbed and polished. In between, I handled at least 35 calls of "Mom, he hit me!" and "Mom, I'm thirsty." My kids never seem to cooperate when I'm busy, but then, kids never seem to cooperate, anytime. I tried putting them to work outside. That didn't work. Assigning two little boys a cooperative task invites trouble. One decides he's the boss and the other decides the first one can forget it.

I broke up 27 fights the first day. Very little was accomplished toward the task I had given them and finally I told them to go ride their bikes, that I'd do the work myself.

While I was working on the living room, I got 14 phone calls. I had unplugged the phone in the room where I was working, so I was forced to go racing down the hall to the bedroom when the phone rang.

I think I answered five of those calls. Two were from creditors and three from people trying to sell me something.

By the end of that day, the living room looked brand new and I had aged another five years. I don't know why I do these things; better I should lie out in the sun.

Saturday went about the same, with my closets being the point of my attack. On Sunday I decided to get out and spruce up my car. The trim was falling off, the rearview mirror was under the front seat, and the air conditioning ducts were hanging from under the dash by one screw.

I'm not the world's greatest handyman by any means, but I gave it my best shot.

The mirror is still under the seat and the ducts still hang. But I did manage to get the rest of the trim pulled off, leaving two lines of pitted paintjob, of course...a project for my next long weekend.

I've got to be crazy! I completely wore myself out. Next time I get a long weekend, I'm going to put in for overtime.

I get more rest at work.

She is also to perform in the baton show at the Midland Festival to be held this weekend.

Angela is a baton student at the Sharold Yount School and a first grader at St. Mary's School, Madison.

Welfare down in state, up countywide

Illinois public assistance roll have dropped by 39,192 person (4.0 percent) between June 1978 and June 1979, it was announced this week by Public Aid Director Arthur P. Quern.

In Madison County, there was an increase from 17,075 to 17,262. St. Clair County dropped from 42,951 to 40,840.

"Given other indications of a downturn in the economy, the decline in the number of persons on public aid is encouraging. Trends in the coming months will be affected by economic conditions, but efforts on the part of the Department of Public Aid to improve its management of these programs will continue to have an impact on caseload changes," Quern said.

In June 1979 there were 950,493 persons receiving assistance statewide, compared with 989,685 in June 1978.

Public aid rolls reached their highest point in March 1976, when 1,097,336 persons received assistance, in Chicago, general assistance.

The general assistance program is administered locally in Downstate counties.

Granite City's firemen and ambulance personnel

... Standing by, ready to be there

They stand ready, willing, and able. Their days are spent in preparation for those times when the alarm rings and sends them scrambling into action. They are Granite City's firemen and ambulance personnel.

Fire is a word that brings fear. Every year, fire claims millions of dollars worth of property and, too often, lives.

It is the job of the firemen to fight fire and protect lives. It is the job of the ambulance staff members, who work out of the Granite City fire stations, to get the ill and injured to proper medical facilities.

Since emergency situations require immediate and coordinated efforts, those who handle them must be ready to go on a moment's notice. Granite City's firemen and ambulance personnel are.

Being prepared to move quickly means being on duty at the three fire stations 24 hours a day. Since fire and other emergencies can occur at any time, those who fight them must often wait, never knowing when that alarm is going to go off.

At Granite City Fire Station 3, located on Johnson Road, firemen and ambulance crews have a daily routine that is followed. On occasion, the routine is interrupted by the blasting of the alarm, sending everyone scurrying.

Shift change occurs at 7 a.m. At 8 a.m., the three stations conduct radio and phone checks. By 8:15 a.m. on the day the Press-Record visited Fire Station 3, Engineer Don Hayes was visiting "his baby," that being the 500 gallon pumper truck that dominates the large garage at Station 3.

Hayes looked over the complicated piece of firefighting equipment, his checklist in hand, and made sure that the vehicle and its equipment were in proper working order.

He checked the engine, the water tank, the gauges, the hoses, the lights, the siren and a dozen other things. Then he picked up a chamois and wiped the side of the already shining red fire truck. Everything must be ready at all times.

He was joined by Ron Ashby, pipeman, who told him, that one of the back running lights is out. It would have to be repaired.

Ashby is the firefighter who must, along with his captain, enter a fire area, aided by a high-pressure spray of water blasting from the nozzle he carries in his hands. When he's not out on a run, Ashby helps out with the chores that are to be done around a firehouse.

The boss that day was Captain Harvey Smallie, an engineer who has many years with the Granite City Fire Department.

All over the station, the sound of the radio could be heard.

As Hayes finished checking the pumper, the three headed back inside the station and sat down in the roomy kitchen.

The fire alarm sounded. All three men jumped up off of their chairs simultaneously. Ashby answered the phone, which had rung at all three fire stations. It was a wrong number. No run; not this time.

Soon after they were joined by Courtney Renneaux and Jon Langenstein, who were the ambulance crew that day.

The two had just returned from the hospital, where they had gotten supplies for their vehicle. They brought doughnuts back with them.

Together they sat down and had coffee and doughnuts. There was more work to be done, but for now they paused and enjoyed each other's company. The men share a camaraderie that comes from knowing that they can depend on each other in life and death situations.

As they sat and talked, they appeared to be relaxed. But there was a certain tension there.

One could sense the anticipation, the straining of the ears to hear the radio. Even as they took a break from firehouse chores, they were ready—ready to put their lifesaving skills into action.

It is through their waiting, their patient vigil, that the rest of us can feel safe and protected. Should that alarm sound, these men who wait will be there on the front line, fighting.

Granite Cityans should be proud.

ALWAYS READY. Truck and boots above indicate how quickly firemen must move when the alarm sounds. Some of their waiting hours are taken up by conversation. Or, in the case of emergency medical technician Courtney Renneaux (seated in the lower left picture) and Capt. Harvey Smallie (standing), listening might be a better word for it. EMT Robert Mink (photo at right) relaxes after a run.

UN nominee remembered as national debating champ airplane carrying Soviet delegate Ludmila Vlasova.

After determining that she was voluntarily leaving the U.S. and her husband, Boris, had been killed, she was granted asylum in the U.S. the previous year.

McHenry was a social science major with a speech minor at Illinois State. He was named outstanding debater in the U.S. in his senior year by a national tournament in Lincoln, Neb.

He worked as an announcer on the campus radio station for three years, and even found time to act in the play "Solid Gold Cadillac."

McHenry was a leader in the desegregation of restaurants and businesses in the town of Normal in the middle 1950s.

During his first year at Illinois State, McHenry lived in a house owned by the Rev. James W. Pryune, who now heads the Campus Religious Center in Normal and is the part-time coordinator of theological studies at ISU.

"Don's personality and academic abilities were way above average," Pryune recalled. "He had a great capacity for relating to people—his peers as well as those older and younger than he."

"There were many times we would sit and talk about politics and foreign affairs, although at the time they were not much reason for students to get too involved in politics because they could not vote," he said.

"Don had strong convictions and acted on them," Pryune said.

Dr. Stanley G. Rives, acting provost at Illinois State, was a graduate student coaching the debate team in 1957.

"Don was an extremely serious young man, more serious than the average student by a long shot," Rives said. "He was an excellent debater and student who had a lot of interest in people and political science."

"The nomination is not really surprising because Don always did well dealing with people—in the State Department, the Brookings Institution, and the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace," he said.

"He's a bright guy who learns quickly."

Associate Professor of Speech Emerita Ruth Yates remembered that McHenry was "self-possessed and knew just what he wanted."

"I was in charge of the radio station for 15 years and (Edwardsville's) WJBC, and we broadcast every afternoon and evening. Donald read the news and announced the weather."

Miss Yates said McHenry had a sincere desire to be helpful and had a deep interest in diplomatic work.

"He was not what you would call a jolly type of person, but he made friends easily and was well liked," she said.

As a student at East St. Louis Lincoln High School, McHenry was involved in the school newspaper and yearbook as well as civics, student council and honor society.

Soybean variety twilight tour set

By RON CORNWELL
County Farm Adviser

A twilight soybean variety plot tour will be held Tuesday, Sept. 11, at 6 p.m. at the variety plots on Center Grove Road south of Edwardsville.

Geray Perry, University of Illinois soybean specialist, will discuss soybean varieties and other soybean cultural information. There will be plenty of time for each person attending to inspect the variety plots.

The plots were planted as a joint effort between the Edwardsville High School Future Farmers of America Chapter and the University of Illinois Agricultural Extension Council in Madison County.

Jim Krejci, vocational agriculture teacher and FFA adviser at Edwardsville High, and John Gueldeker, a senior student in FFA, helped erect the signs preparing for the plot tour.

To locate the plots, go south of Edwardsville on Route 159 about a half-mile to Center Grove Road. This is the road north of the Edwardsville Barge Canal. Turn west on Center Grove Road and go approximately 1 1/2 miles. The plots are on the south side of the road.

Dwain Seger, a Highland area farmer and a member of the extension agronomy committee, will help in carrying out the twilight tour.

Many varieties in the plots include Crawford, Bonus, Cumberland, Oakland, Wayne, Woodworth, Elf, and others. For more information, call FFR 335, Union, Agri Pro 40, Agri Pro 35, Williams, Hancock, Pomona and Outler.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

Louie Koeller, Agricultural Extension Council chairman, is asking that anyone interested in serving on one of the agriculture extension program committees contact the extension office.

The Agriculture Extension Council has seven program committees. They are in the areas of resource development, agronomy, farm management, horticulture, livestock, dairy and public relations.

Committees are appointed for a one-year period. The purpose or function of the committees is to plan and carry out extension educational programs in Madison County.

All areas of the county will be considered in developing the planning committees regardless of whether or not they are in the county.

Those interested are to notify the Extension office, 900 Hillsboro, Edwardsville 62025.

BEAN HARVEST AID

In some years, herbicides don't give the desired weed control in soybeans and a rank weed growth becomes a problem at harvest time. If this should be your problem, Paraquat can be used as a "harvester aid" in drying weeds in soybeans. You must follow label directions carefully when using Paraquat in this manner. Do not apply Paraquat before the soybeans are fully developed. Applying the chemical too early can result in a yield reduction. The higher rate should be used for cocklebur and remaining leaves should be turning yellow.

The recommended broadcast rate is 1/2 to 1 pint per acre.

Use approximately 20 to 40 gallons of water per acre for ground application. The higher rate should be used for cocklebur.

A surfactant can be added for grater effectiveness.

INJURES SHOULDER

Sammy Carlyle, 30, Jennings, Mo., suffered an abrasion to his right shoulder in an auto accident this week and was released after being X-rayed at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

MAN BUMPS HEAD

Ricky Allen, 20, of 1717 Olive St., was treated at St. Elizabeth Medical Center early this week after being injured in an auto accident. He said he bumped his head on a window. X-rays were taken and he was released.

HURTS RIGHT HAND

Billy Dalton, 17, of 2601 Missouri Ave., was treated at St. Elizabeth Medical Center early this week after injuring his right hand while defending himself. His fourth and fifth fingers were swollen, authorities said. He was X-rayed and released.
